Explosion

Westland fire officials are still investigating the cause of this home explosion which occurred at the 32200 block of Mason Court Jan. 9. Two walls of the home were blown out and the 29-year-old man inside the home when the blast occurred suffered burns on his face, hands and arms, according to Westland Assistant Fire Chief George Riley. The man told investigators he had disconnected the gas stove and began working on it while the gas was still on. Firefighters from three stations worked approximately three hours to extinguish the 10:16 a.m. blaze which left the Norway home totally destroyed, Riley said. The man was treated and released from Annapolis Hospital. MCN photo by Ken Garner

Treasurer, Bergeron squabble over 20-year bond issue

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

A minor skirmish broke out between City Councilman Noah "Pete" Bergeron and City Treasurer James Napiorkowski at the treasury department's Jan. 9 study session.

Bergeron, who is a financial specialist in his private life, urged Napiorkowski to "realize you made a mistake in tying up city funds for about 20 years and vow not to do it again. Otherwise we could end up like Orange County, California, which recently filed for bankruptcy."

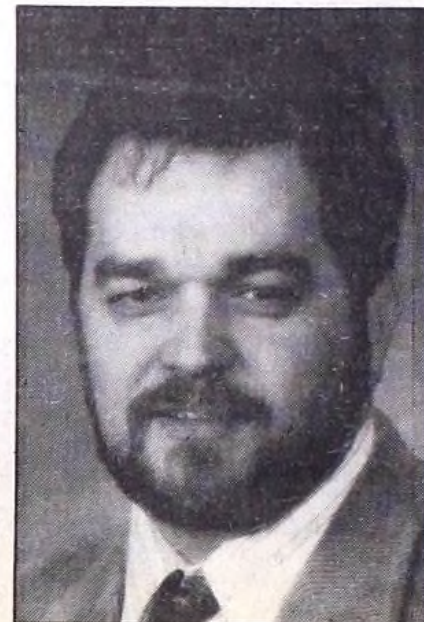

Napiorkowski became incensed by the comparison and told Bergeron he saw no similarities between the two cases.

"Ours is not as extreme as Orange County's, but we should learn from it," Bergeron replied.

The study session was called after it was revealed that the city lost about $52,000 in revenue by selling back $200,000 in "strip bonds" prior to their maturation date last year. Napiorkowski said the reason for the cash needs were that the city tax bills were sent out last year because of the passage of Proposal A last March.

And on Jan. 9 the city had another possible $1 million in bonds that could be sold short if the city had a pending need for cash, Bergeron warned.

But Bergeron admitted

James Napiorkowski

Noah "Pete" Bergeron

Tuesday that the bond market has improved in recent days and the possible city shortfall is now down to $700,000.

Bergeron also asked broker Tim Moran of Edward D. Jones Co. used by Napiorkowski to explain a "strip bond" in layman's terms. The broker said the "strip bond" issue was extremely complex and he would be glad to bring Bergeron a printed explanation and discuss it in depth at a future date.

"I can tell you that the bonds are 100 percent guaranteed by the federal government," he said. "The old values will return in time. To sell them now is a lose-lose situation. To keep them is a win-win situation," the broker concluded.

But Bergeron continued, "When things sound too good to be true (as in high profits) they usually are, as in Orange County."

Napiorkowski interrupted again and said, "We are not working as in Orange County."

City auditor Chester Kuras also urged the council, "If you are going to need money in March, we need to prepare for it now."

City Councilman Jimmie Raspberry asked the auditor to keep the council abreast of any financial changes as they affect the city.

Napiorkowski said "after seven years as city treasurer, I'm familiar with financial cycles."

Raspberry said, "Yes, but this was not a typical year."

Veteran teachers may retire

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

Top paid teachers in the Wayne-Westland School District will have the opportunity to retire early or resign with a $50,000 incentive offered by the district.

The voluntary incentive plan (VIP) is expected to save the district approximately $1.2 million next school year if 120 teachers and 10 administrators take the incentive, according to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Larry Thomas. This savings would increase yearly, adding up to an expected $11 million in five years, according to Dan Slee, superintendent of employee services.

"After the first year, we'll save $25,000 per teacher and considering the raises they would receive, we'll save even more," Slee said.

The $50,000 pay out would be made over a span of five years by the district to the individuals who would receive the money during an eight-year period and an additional $20 per every sick day accumulated. The district will also be responsible for paying a portion of those employees taxes during the first year, according to Chief Fiscal Officer Patricia Brand.

However, Slee said, the district will not be paying a five-to-eight-percent severance pay to the employees.

With an anticipated debt of $3.5 million for the 1995-96 school year, Thomas said, "We have to look at where within the budget we can make recommendations to balance the budget. We've already cut $14 million (over the last three years)."

"We believe the schools will benefit if we can find a way ... on a voluntary basis to have our high paid employees leave the district and be replaced by lower paid individuals," Thomas said.

These new employee replacements, Slee said, would be earning a salary range of around $30,000 compared to salaries ranging from $47,000 to $64,490 for teachers and up to $67,749 for administrators. According to Slee, most teachers are earning above $55,000.

The incentives are being offered to the Wayne-Westland Education Association, Wayne-Westland Building Administrators Association and the Wayne-Westland Central Office Administrators Association.

Board members voted 5-0 to approve the money-saving plan, with Board Vice President Richard LeBlanc and Trustee Laurel Raisanen absent.

"I would like to thank the board for taking another courageous move in balancing our budget," Thomas said.

"By taking people at the top of the scale ... and offering voluntary retirement, the district saves substantial money," McCusker said, citing the replacement of former Assistant Superintendent of Employee Services Bill Taylor who was replaced by Slee at a savings of almost $20,000.

"The pay was lower for his (Slee's) replacement and we had the opportunity to go out and hire new people coming out of college and universities with the latest technologies," McCusker said.

"Although I'm saddened at the number of experienced staff we'll lose, I'm glad we're looking at these solutions," Board Treasurer Patricia Brown said.

"This type of plan will save us from making (not as many) instructional cuts in the future," Board Secretary Vicki Welty said.

"We will downsize the number of employees with the closing of schools and the early retirement incentive," McCusker said.

Gun-free policy modified

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

A modified gun-free school policy was adopted by the Romulus School District last Monday, putting its policy in compliance with state and federal laws.

Several years ago, the local school district approved a tough policy that permanently expelled any student found to have a weapon on his or her person on Romulus School District related property.

Late last year the Michigan Legislature approved and Gov. John Engler signed a new state-wide law that expels the same type students, but allows those up to the fifth grade to petition for re-instatement after 60 days (but they must fulfill 90 days of expulsion time) and those in grades six to 12 are allowed to seek re-instatement after 150 days (but must fulfill 180 days of expulsion time).

While some felt the change was a weakening of the local school weapons policy, Assistant Superintendent of Schools Joel Carr felt upbeat about the change, stating, "Now we have both state and federal laws supporting our own student code of conduct."

According to the new provision, "a student shall be expelled if it is determined that the student brought a dangerous weapon to school, possessed a dangerous weapon at school or in a weapon-free school zone, committed arson in a school building or on school grounds, or raped someone in a school building or on school grounds."

The student code listed starter guns and BB guns among those weapons covered by the policy, as well as poisonous gas devices, bombs, grenades, daggers and stilettos, knives with blades longer than three inches or brass knuckles.

The policy describes "a weapon-free school zone" as school property (a playing field, property used for school purposes), and a vehicle used by a school to transport students to or from school property.

The policy also states a "building administrator (such as a principal) shall report any student violating this policy to the local police and shall notify the student's parents or legal guardian."

The building administrator also is instructed to refer any student expelled under this policy, within three days of expulsion, to the County Department of Social Services.

Romulus family aided after fire

Romulus police officers and civilians teamed up to help a Romulus Veterans of Foreign Wars Post employee and her family, after a fire heavily damaged their home shortly before Christmas.

Police received the cry for help on Dec. 22, four days after the fire occurred, Acting Police Chief Daryl Poe reported.

Gary Carpenter of the Romulus VFW Post revealed the single mother of two children, had been aided earlier by the Goodfellows with a donation of food and toys, but was in desperate need of clothing following the fire. "Although the request for assistance was on short notice, we were able to collect approximately $200 from fellow police officers," Poe reported.

"In addition to this money," Poe continued, "a citizen who was in the lobby overheard what we were doing and brought in an additional $163 the next day from the Romulus Ladies Bowling League.

Poe then contacted an area Meijer Store, where Manager Kim Puller selected $370 worth of clothing for the family.

"We picked up the clothing and took it to the VFW post," Poe reported.

Poe added in his note to Mayor Beverly McAnally that "it is our hope that this small gesture has made this family's Christmas a little brighter."

Romulus student in Albion band

Danielle R. Cadaret, daughter of Roger J. Cadaret of Romulus, recently completed a successful season with the British Eighth, Albion College's marching band.

The Albion sophomore joined the British Eighth as it performed four different half-time shows, each with a unique theme and drill including an all-British and a Les Miserables show, that captured the attention of the home football audience.

The marching band ended the season with an indoor concert that featured all of the music performed throughout the fall season.

The British Eighth prides itself in maintaining the traditional look of the Queen's Honor Guard and the use of the British Eighth step during parades and pre-game activities.

Equestrian student helps team win

Elizabeth S. Greca, a freshman equestrian studies major from Romulus, helped the University of Findlay equestrian team become the overall high point winner for all four stock seat shows at Michigan State University.

Greca, daughter of Marsha E. Greca of Romulus, is a 1993 graduate of Romulus High School.

She earned a first place, two second places and a fifth place in intermediate events during the two days of competition.

Rally for life planned Sunday

A "Rally for Life" will be held Sunday from 2 to 3 p.m. at Kennedy Square in Detroit to memorialize the 22nd anniversary of the Roe versus Wade court decision that legalized abortions nationwide in 1973.

The annual rally is hosted by the Detroit Chapter of the Right to Life-Lifespan and is co-sponsored by many of the churches and Christian organizations in western Wayne County.

Right to Life since 1970 has not engaged in picketing, civil disobedience or violence and has a written policy statement to that effect. President Ann Sands said.

On the move Moving business is family affair, motivated by respect

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The Morse family of Romulus has been on the move for more than 40 years.

Herb and Vi Morse point with pride to the 40 years of moving experiences their family has enjoyed. To emphasize the spirit of the Morse Moving and Storage Co., Herb Morse reveals that 10 of his 11 children still work for the company.

Family members fill a wide range of company jobs from packer to van foreman to managers and administrators.

Middle child David Morse was selected as company president in 1987, after their father asked his lined-up family members, "Anyone who wants to be president, please step forward."

David was selected when everyone else took one step back.

Herb Morse said while total 1994 figures are not yet complete, as of Dec. 15, 1994, the family-run business reported $3,359,000 in sales for the year. That surpassed the family's 1993 total of $3,046,000 in sales.

Morse said his family venture has "created an incredible business that operates at a five percent profit margin. That compares to other moving companies that operate with a one to two percent profit margins.

Mother Vi Morse helps out with the day to day banking needs of the company and granddaughter, Lisa Morse, recently was promoted from customer service representative to outside private transfer sales. Lisa's dad, Bill, remains one of the top sales people.

President David Morse feels the secret to the success of his family's company business is his "philosophy on the communication between and the feelings about the other family members and employees."

Morse said, "I pride myself on treating the other employees and family members the way I want to be treated. I like being able to think about the way I handled a situation and not regret the way I took care of it."

"I like to look people in the eye and know that I did the right thing," Morse said.

It was not surprising that Morse developed the WOW incentive program that rewards enthusiastic employees for exceptional work based on information received from customer reports and surveys or even from other employees.

The WOW program was created to increase quality of service Morse Moving provides, heighten employee morale and improve communication between management and staff members.

"Once the response to the WOW program began to come in," Morse said, "our employees began to tell customers 'we need feedback, if you think we did a good job, write our office and tell them'."

Morse continued, "We have found that once someone writes our name down, it is more likely they will remember us well enough to pass on a recommendation to a friend, co-worker, etc. in need of moving services. We can show you it works on our computer records, as our referrals jumped five points after the WOW program started."

Monthly employee winners receive recognition at a WOW meeting, a gift, and a special parking spot for the month. There also are annual winners, who are given plaques and the top three in each division receive gifts.

Morse Moving and Storage is an agent for Allied Van Lines and has received the Quality Circle Award from Allied. Only about three percent of Allied agents receive this award, which breaks down to about eight or nine out of 600 agents.

Morse's concepts on improving communication have attracted the attention of area realty companies and business colleges and he has been called to speak before business related groups numerous times in the past.

Morse revealed his family's company only moved from Lincoln Park to an existing building on Wick Road (near Inkster Road) in Romulus in July 1994.

The Romulus facility offers us about 40 percent more storage room, Morse said, but we expect to be out of space again this summer and will have to seek supplemental building locations.

As an added incentive to his employees, Morse said the company added profit sharing systems on Jan. 1, 1995.

"We just had our best year ever," he said, "but we want to say the same thing at the end of 1995 also."

Group fights recall effort

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

While one group of Wayne-Westland school district residents is working on recall petitions to have four school board members ousted, another group of citizens are working to fight the recall effort because they claim it is "political."

Westland resident Liz Potter, group spokeswoman for the Wayne-Westland Citizens Information Committee, said the committee has reviewed the performance records of Board President Mathew McCusker, Treasurer Patricia Brown, and trustees Francis Winter and Debra Fowlkes and have decided the recall effort would be in the "worst interest" of the community.

"A recall should only be used in the case of malfeasance or misfeasance," Potter said. "The individuals organizing this recall have stated they are doing so because of the board's action to eliminate secondary transportation. Any resident of the Wayne-Westland Community who disagrees with the actions taken by an elected official has the opportunity to more appropriately express their discontent at the ballot box," Potter added.

Meanwhile, Westland resident Daniel Williams, spokesperson for Parents for Students, the group seeking the recall, said petitions were filed against the board members Tuesday and a petitions approval hearing has been set for . Two previous recall petition requests failed for lack of clarity.

Williams said he waited until the beginning of January 1995 so that he could include Fowlkes, who was appointed to the board in January 1994.

According to law, Fowlkes can not be recalled during her first year in office.

Potter, who retired from the district three years ago as a former music and English teacher, said that although the committee is not happy with the elimination of secondary transportation, they do not feel that transportation is the real issue for the recall.

"We are concerned that there are other underlying reasons for this recall. This is evident with the fact that two of the board members cited, Patricia Brown and Francis Winter, did not vote to eliminate secondary transportation. In fact, Patricia Brown was the only 'no' vote against the measure and Francis Winter was absent that evening," Potter said.

"We also question the recall group's most recent decision to eliminate a board member from the proposed recall who did in fact vote to eliminate transportation. This board member is Richard LeBlanc," she added. "This led us to the conclusion that this recall is simply political and that the individuals who are fronting this effort are merely pawns being manipulated by either past board members who failed to be re-elected, or their discontented political allies who are trying to discredit these individuals," Potter said.

Potter added that she feels it's strange that Williams, who has been in the community for only 9 months, would head up the recall campaign.

Williams said the committee's accusations about political motives are "totally false."

"There is no one in our group which numbers in the fifties that has ever ran for or held public office," Parents for Students representative Linda Cavaletto said. "This is about busing."

He said LeBlanc was omitted from the effort because his past voting record differed significantly from the other four members and that LeBlanc only voted in favor of the busing cuts because he believed that was what the citizens wanted.

"We had a meeting with him ... and we looked at his voting record," Williams said earlier. "He has a good track record. We don't think he's caused a lot of trouble."

LeBlanc, who was unavailable for comment at press time, said earlier that he intends to try to seek the restoration of secondary busing when the 1995-96 budgeting process begins in February.

Potter said the recall election could cost taxpayers approximately $12,000 and urged the recall supporters to cease their actions and "become involved in our community in a way that demonstrates positive outcomes."

"I'm very concerned about this recall," Metro Wayne Democratic Club President Cliff Johnson said. "I got involved with this before and I never will be involved again. It hurts the kids and it destroys the credibility of the school district," said Johnson, who has 6 grandchildren in the district.

According to Potter, the group developed because board members are paying money out of their pockets to fight the recall effort with some $1,500 each in legal fees. Potter said her group plans to conduct fund raisers to assist the four board members with legal fees.

The group also plans to be present at the Wayne County Elections Committee recall petitions hearing

Well zoning case delayed

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The planned continuation of the zoning hearing on the deep injection well issue has been postponed until sometime in February, following the announcement that Environmental Disposal Systems has hired a new attorney.

The final two days of hearings had been planned for Jan. 25 and 26 in the newly remodeled Romulus City Council Chambers.

But Douglas Wicklund, president of EDS, revealed last week that the firm had hired attorney Larry Ternan of Beier Howlett in Bloomfield Hills to represent the well company's case before the Zoning Board of Appeals.

The hearings began before a packed house in the hallway of the 34th District Court House in October during which time EDS presented a number of its past and present officials including Wicklund. They were represented by Norm Hyland of Detroit up to this point in their battle with the city.

The last hearing date provided a forum for members of the anti-well protest group, to ask questions of EDS. Answers to the questions have yet to be supplied publicly.

City Building and Safety Department Director David Paul said the actual date of the hearings will be set at the ZBA night meeting on Feb. 1. He said the reason listed for the delay was to give Ternan some time to study the issues in the case.

When asked if EDS planned any surprises at their part of the hearing in February, Wicklund smiled and said "for the record, no!"

EDS is seeking an okay from the ZBA to open a non-hazardous injection well on the Wharman Road property. The city building department claims that the site is not the correct zone for the well and that it needs to be moved to an industrial trucking zone area.

Since the well has already been dug, EDS said it will fight to keep its original site and if it fails will go back to court or file a lawsuit of its own against the city.

Protesters are fighting the issuance of a use permit that would allow EDS to accept liquid waste from other states and Canada.

Raspberry's letter protested

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Veteran Councilman Jimmie Raspberry ran into some flak on Jan. 9 in reaction to his five-page letter to Romulus citizens in regard to the environmental injection well issue.

Raspberry's signed letter was reported in local newspapers prior to the council meeting that night and was mailed to 6,000 city households later that week.

First Mayor Beverly McAnally termed the letter "a piece of fiction" and "vintage Wicklund" alluding to the possibility that it was produced by Douglas Wicklund, president of the Environmental Disposal Systems.

Both Wicklund and Raspberry deny that charge.

Raspberry also was verbally hit by R.P. Lilly of the Romulus Environmentalists Care About People (RECAP).

"RECAP members have suspected all along that Raspberry was in favor of the EDS deep well. As a result of his recent published letter, he has confirmed our suspicions. He has finally publicly stated that he is in favor of this deep well project," said Lilly.

"However, the records show he voted for the injunction against EDS and for money allocations for this lawsuit," Lilly said.

Lilly added, "You see Raspberry, not McAnally voted for the lawsuits. Thus, how can he refer to them as McAnally lawsuits."

At the meeting, Dan Buzzard asked Raspberry, "Are you in favor of the well?"

Raspberry answered, "I'm in favor of negotiations."

Buzzard, who said he voted for Raspberry many times in the past, declared, "I'm very disappointed in you. You let me down."

Raspberry countered, "The well is here!"

"All they have in the ground right now is a straw. It can be filled with cement," Buzzard said.

Raspberry stood by the statements made in the letter and urged residents to come to his home and view the official documents from which they were taken.

The case of the fired senior citizens director has left a trail of frustrated center members and volunteers in Van Buren Township. One has to wonder if the mess couldn't have been avoided on the part of Van Buren officials who gave Jennifer Delano her walking papers.

Here's the scoop for those who haven't followed the story. Michael Long, director of community services in Van Buren and his bosses fired Delano because not enough seniors were using the center and she and Long couldn't agree on proposed changes.

However, a group of seniors and center volunteers, numbering 20 to 30 have hired an attorney and are expected to challenge the firing in court. They also planned to pack the normally placid Township Board meeting this week with 100 people to argue for the restoration of Delano as director.

Delano, to her credit, has tried to remain above the fray. She says she will attend the meeting, but only to say good-bye. She refuses to seek legal recourse. "I'm a strong person with a nursing degree who can get a job quickly," she told MCN's Ivan Helfman.

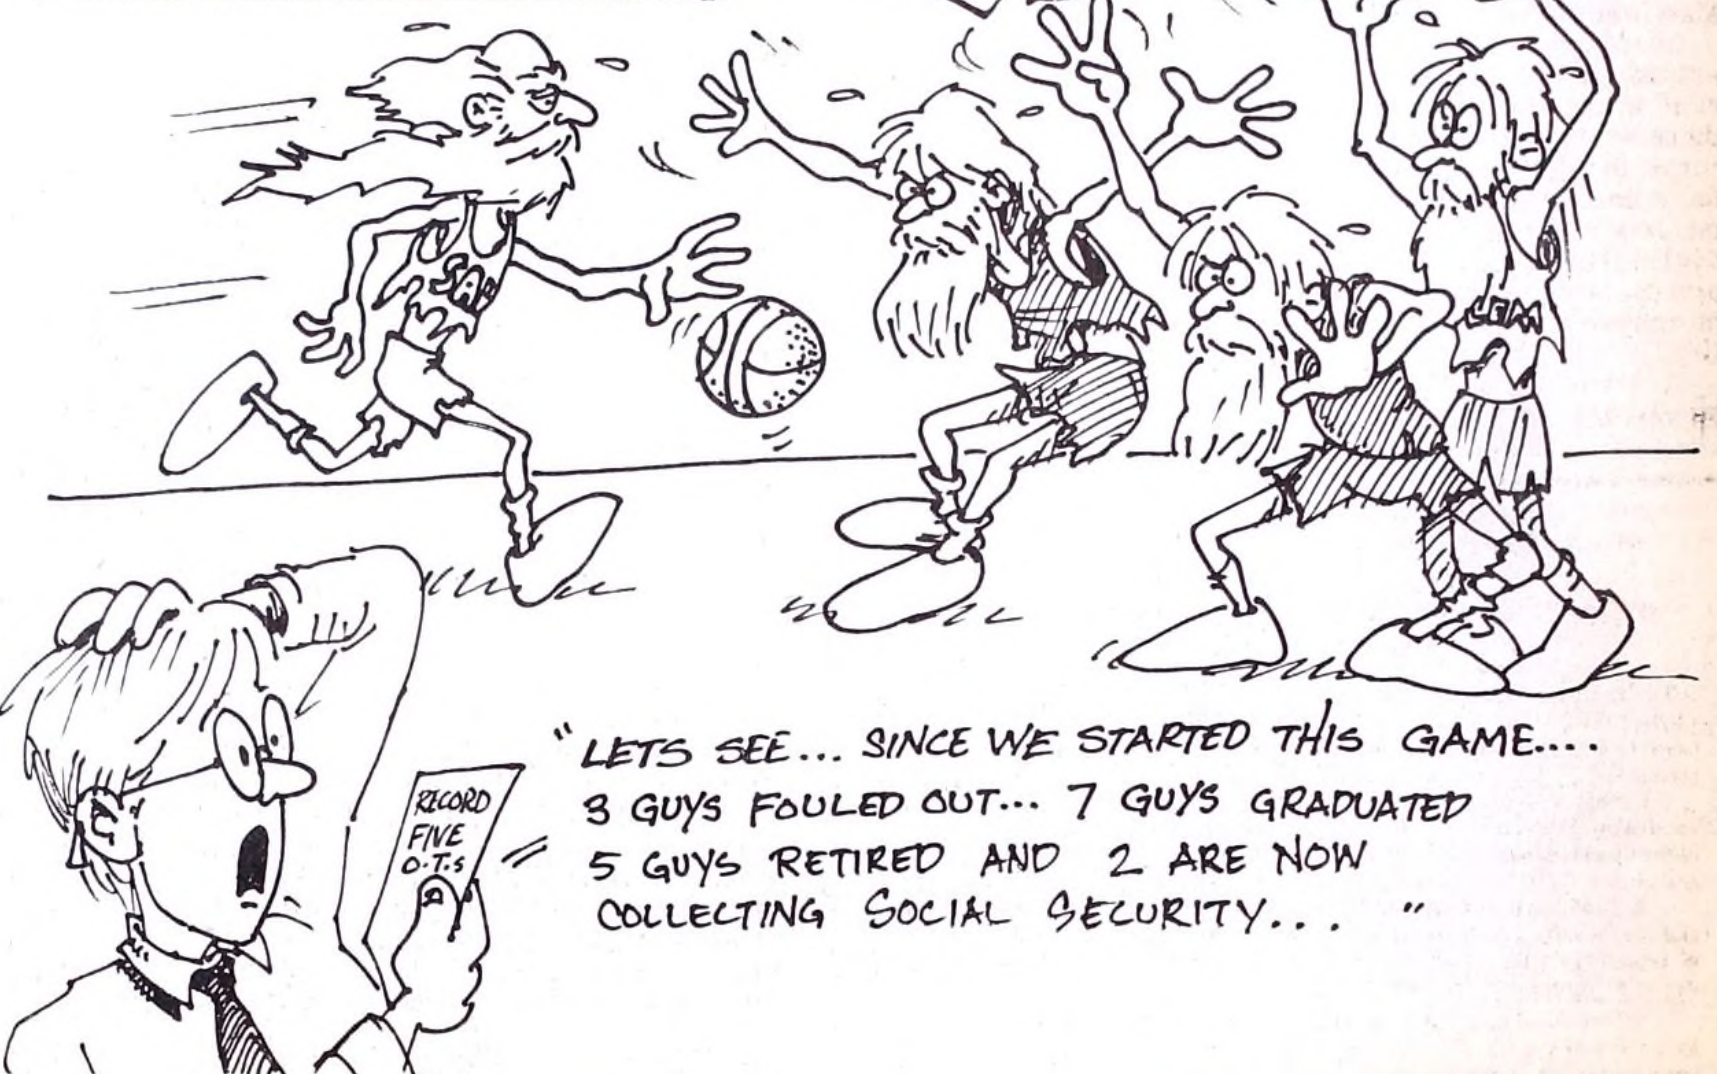

It appears township officials underestimated the backlash the Jan. 6 firing would have. It appears, Ms. Delano was very popular amongst her volunteers and the seniors they serve.

It appears that possibly township officials acted too hastily in their dismissal of Delano. Next step should be to allow seniors and volunteers to have their say at the meeting and to determine whether bringing Delano back makes any sense or not. Hopefully, the entire township board will have an opportunity to review the situation and make recommendations. Collective minds are always better than one or two. If collectively it still makes sense to hire a new director, then so be it. However, if it is determined that Delano was a decent director and had only a personality conflict with her superior, maybe the firing ought to be re-evaluated.

Whatever is decided, it is important to defuse the anger that is now raging. Township officials need to let seniors know that they will have an important say in the direction the senior center takes this day forward. If a new director is to be hired, then a committee of seniors ought to be consulted. Van Buren Township is a great place to live and work. Let's not tarnish the image by allowing this controversy to fester.

Controversy continues, fallout expected

The current environmental injection well battle in Romulus is taking on the appearance of that old country song "Who's Sorry Now."

So-called secret negotiations have occurred between lawyers of both sides - namely the city and Environmental Disposal Systems (developers of the planned non-hazardous/hazardous liquid injection well) for several months.

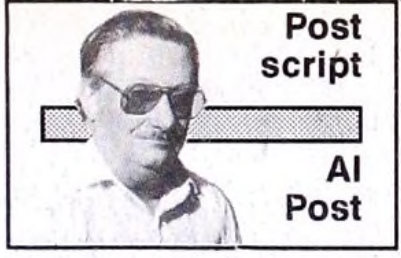

City Attorney Barry Seifman cautioned Councilman Jimmie Raspberry from disclosing any parts of the private sessions, while Raspberry said almost all of that information already is common knowledge.

Councilman Noah "Pete" Bergeron said, "I've tried to stay out of those executive sessions," fearing he would be considered the leak in the secrecy mode. "But the day after the sessions are held, I hear all the details on the streets," he noted.

Initially, two key elements of the settlement asked by the city were that Douglas Wicklund, president of EDS, publicly apologize to Mayor Beverly McAnally and that EDS repay Romulus for all its back court and legal costs on the well issue.

Apparently, Wicklund agreed to those portions of a settlement, which nearly ended the extensive and divisive battle within the city. But another portion of the proposed settlement killed the offer, when the city demanded that EDS limit its permit requests to only non-hazardous liquids.

Both sides admit that the main profits coming from such an injection well would be from hazardous liquids and most are sure that long-term

EDS financial backers would not accede to such a permanent limitation.

With the final two Zoning Board of Appeals hearings slated for Jan. 25-26, delayed, it is quite evident that the rhetoric on both sides will escalate even higher in the next few weeks.

That was spelled out quite plainly with Raspberry's recent letter inferring that McAnally was lying to the public and with Mayor pro tem Mary Ann Banks expressed anger with Wicklund for smiling while she was explaining a brief visit she and others made to the well site in 1993.

If you thought it couldn't get any nastier, think again. Wicklund revealed Tuesday that EDS had replaced its relatively low-key lawyer, Norm Hyman, and plans a much more aggressive battle with the city.

There also are strong rumors that one or more members of Romulus Environmentalists Caring about People (RECAP) group will file this summer for council seats.

Rumors also say that one or more ZBA members, also may enter the campaign fray.

One jokester said the only candidate missing from this fall's election campaign is Forrest Gump.

"Life may be like a box of chocolates" as Gump says, but no one expects the 1995 election campaign to be anything resembling "sweet."

Honors to be bestowed

During the past year, the pages of our newspapers have heralded the accomplishments of many of our citizens. In addition, many other area residents have performed exceptional services but have not received formal recognition.

Now, we are seeking to honor an area resident who has performed extraordinary service to his or her community as our Person of the Year - either a public figure or an unsung hero.

Readers are invited to help us with our quest by submitting nominations.

Recall 'not in best interest'

To the editor:
After much discussion concerning the recall of four members of the Wayne-Westland school board, the members of the Wayne-Westland School Board, the members of the Wayne-Westland Citizens' Information Committee have decided to announce their position with regard to the recall effort.

The board members named in the proposed recall include: Mathew McCusker, Patricia Brown, Francis "Bud" Winter and Debra Fowlkes.

After meeting as a group and carefully reviewing each of the above board members' past and present performances as members of the Wayne-Westland Board, and recent editorials that opposed this recall effort, we have decided that the proposed recall attempt is in the worst interest of our community.

A recall should only be used in the case of malfeasance or misfeasance. The individuals organizing this recall have stated they are doing so because of the board's action to eliminate secondary transportation.

Although we don't wholeheartedly agree with the board's decision to eliminate secondary transportation, we do not believe this action warrants recall.

Any resident of the Wayne-Westland community who disagrees with the actions taken by an elected official has the opportunity to more appropriately express their discontent at the ballot box.

In examining what position to advocate in this effort, our committee immediately noticed what we referred to as a red-flag issue. We are concerned that there are other underlying reasons for this recall. This is evident with the fact that two of the board members cited, Patricia Brown and Francis Winter, did not vote to eliminate secondary transportation. In fact, Patricia Brown was the only no vote against the measure and Francis Winter was absent that evening.

We also question the recall group's most recent decision to eliminate a board member from the proposed recall who did in fact vote to eliminate transportation. This is board member Richard LeBlanc.

This led us to the conclusion that this recall is simply political and that the individuals who are fronting this effort are merely pawns being manipulated by either past board members who failed to be re-elected, or their discontented political allies who are trying to discredit these individuals. We find it a sad commentary that anyone would go to such lengths. Our committee will be investigating this turn of events.

We believe the community also has the right to know that a recall election could cost taxpayers, or should I say the school district -- approximately $12,000. This is not money spent wisely with the best interest of students in mind. Our school district needs every penny this school year.

We urge the members of the unnamed recall effort to cease their actions and become involved in our community in a way that demonstrates positive outcomes.

Liz Potter, chairman
Wayne-Westland Citizens' Information Committee

Quiz prompts prayers

To the editor:
There has always been prayer in public schools. Just check out any class when there is a pop quiz and see how many students start praying. There is plenty of time in a day to pray. No special time or place is necessary. They should be praying instead of talking in class, attacking the teachers or showing each other their parents' handguns.

Residents air gripes about deep well

During the past week, the following messages have been called into our Sound-Off 729-4006 line.

Individuals who wish to comment on any topic of general interest, may call the Sound-Off number, 749-4006, between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m.

Why didn't you print the girls' all-area swimming and diving teams. You print all-area teams for all of the boys' sports--basketball, football, golf, and soccer, but you never print any of the girls' sports. These girls worked very hard and they deserve it, especially the Wayne girls. You should print that in your paper. Thank you.

Jimmie Raspberry, why don't you tell the people of Romulus where do your loyalties lie? Why don't you tell the people about the house you allegedly got from Bestway Recycling back in the summer of 1990? Do you owe any loyalty to the people who are involved in the hazardous waste well? We're waiting for the answers, Jimmy.

The toxic EDS well would, lower residential property values in Romulus to Love Canal levels. The legal costs saved by selling out to EDS wouldn't come close to compensating homeowners for the millions of dollars that property in Romulus will be devalued. No council member should think about settling with the poison handlers because once that waste is poured in, we won't be able to give away our homes.

According to the Van Buren Township version, Jennifer Delano was thrown overboard because of a poor evaluation. What was this evaluation based on? Obviously the opinions of September Days seniors were not considered as no seniors were valued enough by the township capos to be consulted.

Time line set in search for a Wayne-Westland school leader

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

A time line for the Wayne-Westland superintendent search has been set with a group of finalists, one of whom is expected to be chosen by March 27.

Board members agreed to set the deadline for applications for mailings postmarked by Feb. 25 and walk-ins delivered by Feb. 27. The board plans to screen the applications March 6 and has scheduled candidate interviews for March 22, 23, and 24.

Board Secretary Vicki Welty expressed her concern about conducting the search when there was no public outcry or sense of urgency for looking for a new superintendent, especially in the midst of the re-districting/middle school process which is scheduled to be completed before the fall of 1995.

"I asked my fellow board members to think about what

I asked my fellow board members to think about what they were doing and the necessity of it.

- Vicki Welty board secretary

they were doing and the necessity of it," Welty said.

Board members agreed earlier that the new superintendent would begin his term with the district between July 1 and 15 and agreed to a negotiable salary of $100,000. Superintendent Dr. Larry Thomas, whose salary is $100,600, submitted his resignation in 1994.

Board members also developed a criteria for the new superintendent. Most desired budget development, management skills, curriculum development and evaluation as the most important areas of expertise.

Clear decision-making skills, ethics, integrity, compassion, and respect toward others, as well as being respected and regarded as a role model were highly desired characteristics of the candidate.

Citizens' criteria were also collected in a special meeting and their concerns matched those of the board in many areas. Communication and accessibility were of primary concern.

"It's all under one heading -- communication. If you are not a good communicator then there are a lot of misconceptions," Westland resident Bhagwan Dashairya said.

"We need someone that is unbiased -- that comes off being open and fair," Westland resident Bob Grenier said. "I would like to have someone who will at least give you the feeling your suggestions will be taken."

"I would like to see someone who has the ability to take a very complicated system and simplify it. People don't want to come to (school board) meetings because they're too complicated," Westland resident Mary Wieske added.

"We need someone skilled in the art of persuasion," Westland minister Neil Cowling said. "Since the nine years I've been here I haven't seen this community persuaded by anything."

A strong financial background was also a major concern, while others sought knowledge of the candidates past performance. Westland resident Ed Turner recommended calling each candidate references and asking for their weak points as well as the good.

Wayne resident Val Wolf suggested a public questionnaire to solicit superintendent qualifications be mailed out to district residents to those less likely to speak publicly.

Knowing the financial state of the district, currently $1.2 million in deficit, some residents suggested the new superintendent bite the bullet.

Grenier said the new superintendent should be willing to make less money until he or she proves themselves an asset to the district. Dashairya agreed, "Compensation should be based on performance. Then he knows what he has to achieve and has incentive."

"That suggestion makes a lot of sense," Michigan Association of School Boards director of the search Kara Funk said, "but it's not reality."

Funk added that the candidate would more than likely be someone who would be ready to retire after serving as Wayne-Westland superintendent, adding that there would be limited opportunities for a candidate who is unsuccessful as the new superintendent.

NOTICE OF HEARING

NOTICE is hereby given by the undersigned, CONSTANCE L. ROESSLER, Acting Clerk of the Charter Township of Canton, County of Wayne, State of Michigan, to all property owners in the proposed district described below and to all other interested persons:

1. That a petition for the formation of a special assessment district for the installation and maintenance of street lighting has been filed with the Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Canton, pursuant to Act 264 of the Public Acts of 1917, as amended.

2. That hearing on said petition concerning the necessity of said improvement and the formation of this special assessment district will be held before said Board of Trustees at 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, Michigan 48188, on the 14th day of February, 1995 at 7:00 P.M.

3. That any property owner or other person interested in said proceedings may appear at said hearing, file objections to the entire petition or any part thereof, and be heard on said objections.

4. That the proposed special assessment district is located in the Charter Township of Canton and is described as follows: Lot numbers 1 through 132 inclusive, Cavalier Village North Subdivision, Liber 95 Pages 77, 78; Lot numbers 1 through 103 inclusive, Cavalier Village South Subdivision, Liber 95 Pages 79, 80; Lot numbers 1 through 57 inclusive, Cavalier Village West Subdivision, Liber 97 Pages 71, 72; Register of Deeds, Wayne County, Michigan.

5. That said petition and the estimated costs and expenses of said assessment are filed in the office of the undersigned at 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, Michigan 48188, and may be examined at any time during the regular business hours of said office, prior to said hearing.

6. That any property owner or other interested person who fails to appear and object to said petition or to the formation of the proposed special assessment district at the time and place of said hearing may be deemed to have waived his right to object under Act 264 of the Public Acts of 1917.

7. That proposed layout of actual streetlight placement can be viewed in the Office of the Township Clerk between the hours of 8:30 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. Monday through Friday. AFTER INSTALLATION, MINOR VARIATIONS MAY OCCUR IN THE LAYOUT BECAUSE THE ACTUAL PLOTTING OF LIGHTS HAS NOT BEEN FIELD TESTED BY DETROIT EDISON.

Please step outside and read this.

The cold you feel right now is how thousands of families feel 24 hours a day.

This year, thousands of men, women and children will be cold due to a financial hardship. For them, the thought of winter's cold only brings doubt and fear. Whether they are unexpectedly unemployed or the working poor, they will endure the chill of winter without the protection of a warm home. You can help prevent this by contributing to The Heat And Warmth (THAW) Fund.

THAW is a non-profit organization which helps struggling families in 11 Southeastern Michigan counties keep their heat on. It is the last resort for families who have exhausted all other possible resources. Since 1986, THAW has assisted over 15,000 families, more than half with children. Yet, THAW is not considered a handout, but a helping hand, for less than 10% of the recipients are repeat cases.

Once again, Detroit Edison is supporting THAW's efforts. Every dollar you donate will be matched by Detroit Edison and will go directly to help those in need. So, as the nights grow longer, please remember the families who grow colder.

City _____ Phone _____

Michigan Community Newspapers (Belleville Enterprise, Canton Eagle, Inkster Ledger-Star, Romulus Roman, Wayne Eagle and Westland Eagle) in conjunction with area car dealers announces the $10,000 CAR GIVEAWAY contest.

That's Right! Readers of Michigan Community Newspapers will have the opportunity to win $10,000* (must be utilized towards the purchase or lease of a new or used vehicle from participating auto dealers) in this unique contest that begins January 5 and runs through March 15.

Here's How it Works: Simply cut out the entry blanks below and deposit them in ballot boxes at the respective dealerships. Readers can enter once a week at each of the dealerships, for the ten weeks of the contest. Those that enter more than once a week will be disqualified.

Each week a finalist will be chosen from the entries that are deposited. The grand prize winner will be chosen from the 10 finalists in late March.

So don't be shy. Let's start the new year out right. Start snipping the entry blanks each and every week. You have just as good an opportunity as the next reader to bring home a new car.

This contest requires no purchase. All you need to do is fill out the entry blanks provided and visit your friendly car dealers. The weather may be cold and snowy but the deals are hot and the cars are fun.

*MCN will make your first $10,000 in payments on a vehicle of your choice (purchase or lease) from any of the participating dealers.

Longest cage game in state history

Plymouth Salem edges Canton in marathon 5 OT battle, 75-69

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Plymouth-Salem and Plymouth-Canton made history Friday night.

And the two natural basketball rivals had a standing room only, fans hanging from the rafters crowd of 2,500 on hand to witness a history-shattering basketball game.

The two Western Lakes Conference title hopefuls played a marathon five overtimes before a tired and weary coach Bob Brodie and Salem walked off the court at Canton with a 75-69 victory to the cheers of their fans.

"It is the longest game that I have personally been involved in," said Brodie, who has been coaching high school basketball for 20 years and who said that "basketball has been a part of his and his father (Joe's) life for as long as I can remember."

"I will tell you this, I have never seen teams and players as tired and sweating as we were after that game. This game, time-wise, must be some sort of record."

It is. Although the Michigan High School Athletic Association did not have the information available on longest games played, a MHSAA spokesperson said that because of the three-minute rule change this year to four-minutes this year, the Salem-Canton game has to go down as the unofficial record to date, and may be the longest by the old rule as well.

MHSSA officials were to check this week to see if the five OTs also was the most played by the old standard.

Both teams missed numerous opportunities to end the marathon shoot-out, better described as defensive battle, but failed to capitalize on their chances. With each additional OT, the pressure increased and took its toll on the players.

Canton had a shot of ending it in regulation when junior Ron Hunter was awarded a one-and-one personal foul. With Salem up 39-38 and time expired, Hunter tied the game at 39-all with the first of two free throws.

Brodie called a time out to put pressure on the sharp-shooting forward. When the game resumed, Hunter missed the second free throw, sending the game into the first overtime.

In the first four-minute OT ever played between Canton and Salem, each team managed to score seven points. Both teams also answered bas-

White scores 40-plus again

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Whenever his team needed a big basket Friday night, Inkster's prolific scorer Albert White was there to provide it.

White stepped up his game a couple of notches at each turn of the events, and turned in with an incredible four doubles' performance to lead the Vikings to a tough 96-79 victory over the visiting Eagles from Romulus.

The loss snapped a six-game Romulus winning streak.

With door-to-door fans on hand to watch the showdown between the two area basketball powers, White again came through with an ooh-aah performance, scoring an incredible 45 points, five of his baskets were from NBA three-point distances.

The Michigan-bound point-guard, post and forward, also grabbed 20 rebounds, 10 assists and an equal number of steals.

"He was just fantastic," said Inkster coach Monte Dennard, stealing a phrase out of a Billy Crystal script. "He was there when we needed him."

Romulus' sophomore coach Guy Delgiudice agreed.

"Every time we made a bid to catch up, White was there with the answer. He stepped up his game, and we couldn't stop him. We knew he was going to be tough to stop, but we were not counting on him to do what he did."

Also, there was an adequate supporting cast out there against us. They were just too much for us tonight."

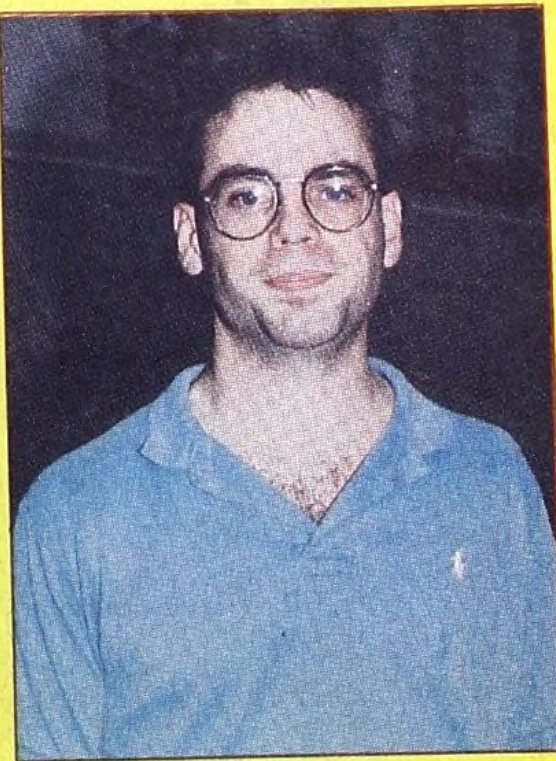

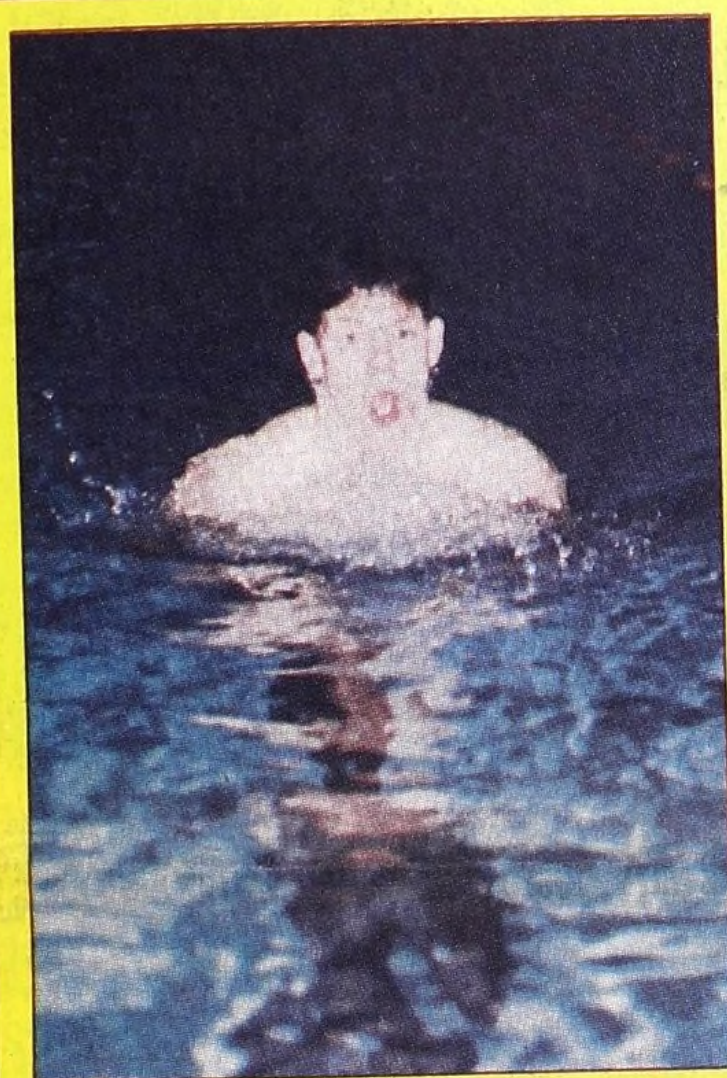

It was the second time this year that the 6-6 White scored 40 or more points. He also hit 47 against East Catholic earlier this year. White's superlative effort, however, falls short of the school's individual scoring mark, set in the pre-three-point era, is 64.

The outcome of the duel wasn't decided until the last couple of minutes. With the Eagles perched precariously

Belleville dunks defending champs

By TOM MOORADIAN

With a resounding 64-38 victory over Taylor Truman last week, Belleville swimmers sent a message throughout the Mega Conference White division.

The victory over the defending champs proclaimed to the rest of the division that the Tigers "are back."

Not that third-year, tearful Belleville coach George Devore and his tankers had gone anywhere, but for the past five years, at least, Belleville has not been able to go anywhere in the new league.

They could be counted upon to hold down the bottom of the standings.

Devore, who hails from Pittsburgh, and is a Robert Morris University grad, was upset after the San Diego Chargers upset the Pittsburgh Steelers, 17-13, to capture their first American Football Conference title.

Understandably, Devore wasn't in a talking mood Sunday night, but he did call a time out to say that his swimmers proved that they will challenge for the divisional championship.

"I think the rest of the division got the message," Devore added. "We're in this to the end."

Belleville swept eight of the 12 events with Aaron Lang single-handedly contributing two first places and also anchoring the winning 200-freestyle relay team.

Lang started the eventful evening with a 24.19 winning performance in the 50-yard freestyle. He then covered the 100-yard freestyle with an impressive 55.09, leaving his

Glenn survives upset at Northville, meets Salem next

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

After surviving an image-tainting upset at Northville, Westland John Glenn packs up its cage gear Friday and travels to Plymouth-Salem to see if it can stay on the title track.

Before they play coach Bob Brodie's Rocks, however, Glenn had to settle an issue with Wayne Memorial. Like who's the best in the school district.

The two natural opponents clashed Tuesday night at John Glenn, an another standing room only crowd was expected.

In its two outings a year ago, Wayne failed to beat Glenn a year ago, and this class of Zebras could be the first to lose three straight times to the boys on Marquette Street.

In the meantime, the Rockets haven't been playing the kind of basketball that a ranked team usually is expected to. They're getting the job done, but barely.

A case in point was Friday's encounter of a different kind at Northville when again it went right down to the wire.

Coach Mike Schuette's team had their hands full at Northville, and it wasn't until Savon Hubbard canned both ends of a one-on-one, and he accomplished that with only 12 seconds left in the game, thus the Westlanders sewed up the Western Lakes Conference decision, 66-65.

Glenn was kept on the edge of oblivion because of a hot-shooting Brian Buser, who busted off the bench and, in the final 1 1/2 minutes of the game, scored an incredible not one; not two but three three-pointers.

With foul-plagued, 6-11, Glenn center Guy Rucker being used sparingly because of fouls, Northville muscled its way under the boards and stayed in the hunt down to the final minute. Glenn had a six-point, 19-13, lead after one and increased their advantage to 36-27 at the half before the Colts galloped back on the strength of 18-16 and 20-14 scoring advantages in the final two periods.

Rucker, who sat out most of the third period, accounted for seven points, including what sounded like a backboard shattering dunk shot to give the Rockets a nine-point cushion that Buser

The Dolphin Swim Club is seeking swimmers.

The club, sponsored by the Wayne Parks and Recreation Department, will conduct two weeks of tryouts on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, beginning at 6 p.m. starting Jan. 16 at the Wayne Memorial swimming pool.

Boys and girls, ages five to 18 who reside in the Wayne-Westland School District, are invited to participate in the tryouts. Parents or potential swimmers who need further information are urged to contact Penny Lively at 721-5872.

Buckner, Melchor find gold at Aquinas

Wayne has 9 medalists

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

In the late 1970s and right to the mid-1980s, Wayne Memorial, under legendary coach Don Haney, produced some outstanding wrestlers and teams that were able to challenge for Class A individual and state team championships.

In recent years the Wayne program fell on, well, hard times.

Now, newly-appointed Wayne coach Jim Zoltowski Sr. believes he has the personnel to return Wayne to that golden era of Wayne wrestling.

"It's been tough around here for the past couple years," Zoltowski notes. "But I feel we have turned the corner. We are definitely on the right track and some day we're going to be able to have the teams that Haney had."

A fourth-place finish that included one gold and eight other medalists at the 16-team Southgate Aquinas Invitational gave credence to what the Wayne coach believes.

Wayne finished with 147.5 points, and trailed perennial Mega Conference, Red Division champ, Southgate Anderson (183), Allen Park (155) and Lincoln Park (152.5) in the final standings.

Wayne managed to win its only gold thanks to a superlative performance by George Buckner, who defeated Mike Shaw of Melvindale, 5-2, for the 185-pound weight class.

Buckner got to the finals thanks to victories over Mike Kish, 7-5, of Lincoln Park, and Dave Sutherland, of Trenton, via a 1:28 fall.

Sean McInerney picked up a bronze medal for the Zebras in the 151 pound class while Matt Barc, a 134-pounder, also earned a third-place.

Inkster continues to roll

Inkster coach Sam Ellis apparently has found a few good men.

With jobs and indolence claiming some of his veteran wrestlers who helped win a conference title a year ago not returning to the 1995 lineup, Ellis appeared on the long road of despair this year.

And that has apparently changed. He has some solid building blocks and need only to be polished with the elements of time.

Ellis has managed to put together a lineup that remains in the thick of the Suburban Athletic Conference title chase and, last week, the Vikings also had an opportunity to jolt Detroit Country Day and stun Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook.

In tournament competition, the Vikings finished ninth at the 16-team Southgate Aquinas Invitational (See Related Story on this page) last week. The defending conference champs also surfaced with the Most Valuable Wrestler at Aquinas as Anthony Melchor edged Manuel Cantu of Melvindale 5-4 in the finals of the 119-pound match to win the gold and provide the Vikings with a major portion of their 75 points.

"Anthony did an excellent job," said Ellis. "It's not easy earning the MVP award at a tournament that has so many fine wrestlers."

The Vikings also cashed in on Darwin Baker and Kevin Jackson's performances for second-place medals.

Baker was awarded the silver after he was pinned by Car-

It's showtime for Wayne cagers

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Forget the 15 unanswered points that Wayne scored against Fordson last week that opened the door to a 64-58 victory.

And that 68-61 Wayne triumph Friday night over Woodhaven won't mean very much to Wayne coach Chuck Henry and his Zebras if they don't demolish Belleville's speedy title train this week.

Wayne plays two of the top, in fact the top two ranked teams in the West this week, and Henry knows that "these are the big games that stir interest."

"What can I say but that we are going to go up against the best in the West in Glenn and Belleville," stressed Henry. "These teams have been selected the best by the people who know - the press."

"Our kids are eager to get a crack at them."

Wayne traveled to Glenn (Tuesday) and will be at Belleville Friday night.

Although they haven't been overlooked by the polls, Wayne hasn't received the recognition its 7-1 record warrants, or that their cross-district rivals, Glenn, and defending Mega Conference Red Division champ, Belleville, has been enjoying this season.

Without notable height in its lineup, however, Wayne remains a formidable opponent on the hardwood. This year, Wayne continues to thrive thanks to solid performances from Lorenzo Guess, Richard Rashad, Jameel Wooden and Roland Patterson.

Guess sank nine of his game-high 21 points in the second period to stake Wayne to a 31-23 lead over Woodhaven which paved the way to the seven-point win.

Woodhaven, one of the pre-season favorites to make a run for the crown Belleville presently owns, managed to make Wayne sweat to the end with the heat provided by 6-9 senior center Ryan DeMichael, who drilled in 24 points and hauled in a dozen rebounds for the game. Teammate Dave Goudeaux also was in double figures with 10.

Rashad also did a commendable job on the boards as he grabbed nine rebounds to go along with his 14 points. Wooden chipped in 14; Patterson contributed 10 points to the Wayne cause.

The Zebras had one of their better shooting nights at the free throw line where they made 11 of 15 offerings. Woodhaven came through with 10 of 18 charities.

"It was a good win for us," Henry said. "Woodhaven has some of the best talent in the conference."

In the showdown of possible heir-apparents to the Belleville throne, Wayne rallied after trailing 12-8 and 24-21 in the first two quarters at Fordson to score the first 15 points of the third period went on to jolt the Tractors, 64-58.

In that 15-point outburst, Guess contributed nine of his season's high 28 points. He also came away from Dearborn with seven steals and six assists - not a bad evening's work.

Rashad and Wooden chipped in eight points each.

Wayne had its hands full trying to stop Kosen Karin and Sabih Zaher in the first half. Each pumped in eight points in a 24-second period for the Tractors. Wayne adjusted after the half and the two Fordson sharpshooters were held to two baskets each the rest of the way.

quickly deflated after his debut on the court.

Rucker finished with 19 points and 15 boards and Hubbard chipped in 15 points. Also in double figures for the title hopefuls was Terrel Tigner, who added 13.

Entering the tilt with Wayne Tuesday night, Glenn sported a 5-1 record. And Friday night when they take on a highly-regarded Salem, who is coming off of a sensational victory at the expense of Canton, Glenn needs the win to stay atop of the conference standings.

Of the Northville encounter, Schuette pointed out that the Colts are "probably the most underrated team in the league. They are a very scrappy team that has in its lineup players from a junior varsity team that went 20-0 a year ago."

And what about Brodie's Rocks?

"Well-disciplined and a team that has a lot of patience," Schuette said. "Believe me, I don't think anyone is going to disagree when I say we will be playing some of the finest teams in the area if not the state in the next couple of weeks."

ket-for-basket in the second OT. In a wild third overtime, Salem grabbed a three-point lead, but Canton came back and tied it and each team managed to score nine-points, forcing the issue into a fourth OT.

The extra periods tool their tolls on the players. Canton lost star senior Ted Docks to personal fouls and Hunter joined him on the bench. Salem lost Justin Marcus and Kirk Craggs to fouls.

In fact, during the marathon, Salem went to the line 33 times and made 25 while Canton had an opportunity to shoot 49 and made only 19.

Both teams got in foul trouble early - and the officials kept calling the game "very close," according to Brodie.

After each team collected six points in the fourth OT, setting off the fifth and what eventually was the final extra period, Dave Bol dunked the final basket, after Dave Herriman, sank four critical free throws, to end the history-making game.

Canton, sans two key players, lost in the fifth extra period as the Rocks outscored the hosts, 10-6, in the final frame.

It began, as most Salem-Canton cage duels do: physical and tense. Salem managed to go up 13-9 Dan McKian set the pace for the winners. However, Docks and Hunter kept the Rocks honest and the Chiefs tied the score at 19-all, then took the lead on a Docks' free throw 20-19 at intermission.

Outscored 10-6 in the third period, Canton came back with the equalizer when they tossed in 13 to Salem's 10 points in the final period in the regulation time.

McKian finished with 13 points and the Rocks also had three others in double figures - Herriman, Craggs and Dave Bol all had 10.

On the other side of the scoring ledger, Docks' 28 topped all scorers. Included in that total were seven threes. Hunter finished with 16 points.

The victory improved Salem's record to 7-1 on the year, while the loss snapped a four-game Canton winning streak and left the Chiefs with a 5-3 record as the week got underway.

Salem also knocked off Brighton last week, 72-64, as Herriman scored a season's high 20 points and Marcus added 14 and McKian contributed 13.

Conference because it has failed to field teams over the past two years. The Red Division is considered the toughest division in the conference. The Zebras hope to make a bid for recognition with its 1995 team.

And to realize that goal, Zoltowski says he has between 25 to 30 wrestlers grappling to make the starting lineup.

"In time, I feel we will come back," Zoltowski stressed. "These kids are out to prove themselves. And I believe they can do it."

rivals in the wake.

The 16-year-old junior came back in the 200-yard freestyle relay and combined with Shawn Johnson, Ted Church, and Jonathan Shaw to win the event in 1:42.59.

Devore launched his bid for the victory over Truman with a foursome that included Gary Collins, Todd Carrico, Austin Rich and Johnson in the opening 200-yard medley relay. The Tigers wrapped that event up with a 1:54.24 swim.

Shaw returned for the 200-yard freestyle event and was clocked in the winning time of 2:03.22. Carrico stashed the 200-yard individual medley away for the Tigers as he turned in a 2:17.47 to win the event.

went to the champs. He picked up the first thanks to a total of 200.25 points.

Belleville countered with a victory in the 500-yard freestyle as Church led the pack to the wall (5:36.27) and Sawyer wrapped up the 100-yard breaststroke with a 1:16.39 effort for the event.

Belleville returned the non-conference waters Tuesday night at Westland John Glenn and, on Thursday, resumes its bid for a divisional championship with a visit to Redford Union. The latter may be iced because of a water main break on Monday that caused the cancellation of classes at the high school.

double winners were: Mike Franklin (106), Makimba Mims (119), Jay Wiggins (126), Juquin Gould (134), Sharrell Owens (142), Darwin Baker (151) and Kevin Jackson (275).

If Inkster hopes to repeat as the Suburban Athletic Conference champ this season, the Vikings need to find a way to get by Willow Run, according to the veteran Viking coach.

The two clash this week to determine which is best in the SAC.

"They (Willow Run) have some fine wrestlers," Ellis said. "To stand a chance to repeat, we need this one."

within reach, thanks to balanced scoring assault led by Anthony Stoudmire, Michael Bell and Ship Luster - White tossed in 18 of his team's 31 points in the final eight minutes to seal the victory.

White had staked the Vikings to a 25-19 lead in the first period, collecting 10 points. He also sank 10 in the second frame as the Vikings came out of the half with a 48-41 advantage.

Romulus failed to capitalize on White's "cool spell" in the third period when he collected only seven points as the Eagles connected on a mere five of 27 from three-point range and also canned 14 of 24 at the free throw line. Inkster made 11 of 17 at the charity stripe.

Stoudmire finished the game with 20 points and Bell was close behind with 18. Luster chipped in with 16.

White had an excellent supporting cast in Haneef Sabree and Perry Pope. Sabree, who also connected on a pair of crucial treys, finished with 21 points while Pope pumped in 15 points.

Earlier in the week, Inkster dug itself in a hole at Willow Run and failed to dig themselves out, losing a big 65-54 decision to the Flyers. The loss may have jeopardized the Vikings' "repeat" changes and boosted Willow Run's title stock in the Suburban Athletic Conference.

Wayne Resident captures Mr. USA title, turns life around

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

No matter how difficult life may seem, it can change overnight for the better—just ask Loyd D'Angelo.

The 23-year-old Wayne resident recently took home the title of Mr. USA Michigan in a competition which didn't require body building or talent. The contenders competed in tuxedo, physique, and most importantly, a personal interview.

For achieving this first-place win, D'Angelo won the following: $1,000, full tuition scholarship from Specs Howard School of Broadcast Arts and John Casablancas, a designer suit, an After Six Tuxedo, limousine service, set of tires, membership to Fitness USA, on-camera consultation, tanning package and a year of free hair care from Blue Salon.

But D'Angelo's latest accomplishment is only a minor reflection of the true reward he has received from overcoming personal obstacles. D'Angelo has a new outlook on life, and he is hoping to keep it.

At the age of nine, D'Angelo lost both of his parents. He got involved with the wrong crowd and entered a world of drugs. But no matter how bad each day looked for D'Angelo when he got up in the morning, he knew he wanted more out of life.

"I lost my mom when I was four years old and my dad when I was nine," D'Angelo said. "I've been on my own a long time. I understand a lot of these young kids today because I had a drug problem when I was their age. I use to hang out with kids in gangs. I could get any type of drug I wanted."

"More than ever I want to work these kids because I was one of them, and now I want to show them they need to have faith, hope and confidence. They can be anyone they want and do anything they want because look what I did."

D'Angelo said he has been clean from drugs for more than a year. He said with the help from his mother's brother, who he now considers his father, he was able to get back on track with his life.

"When I got out of the hospital 1 1/2 years ago, I borrowed money from my dad to stay in a hotel because all I had was the clothes on my back," D'Angelo said. "Everything I now own, I worked for without drugs."

D'Angelo lives in an apartment in Wayne. He has two children—Ashlee Nicole and Toni Marie. He said it was through a friend that he heard about the Mr. USA contest and decided to enter.

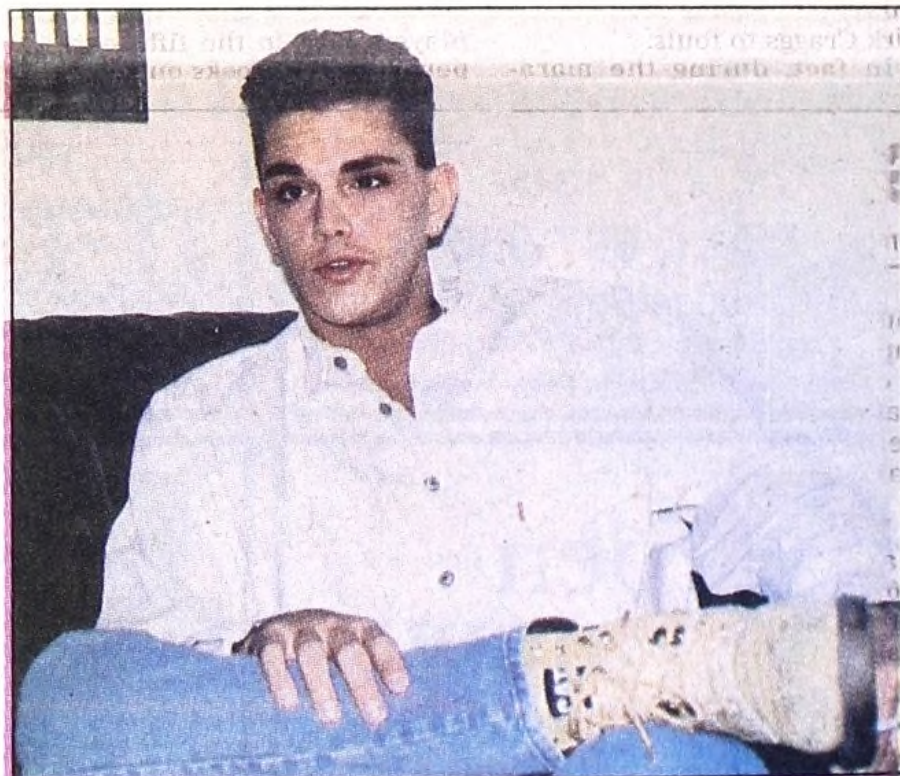

"He told me that he called the Mr. USA officials and told them he had the new winner meaning me," D'Angelo said. "They called me and asked me to interview. At the finals there were about 45 other people competing against me. We had to tell our goals and life story. We also took part in a physique contest, and I wore boxers from Calvin Klein. They're my favorite."

The Wayne resident has modeled for the Mr. J. Board at Jacobson's and for various tuxedo establishments.

He is a Bishop Borgess Catholic High School graduate and hopes to finish his college degree in child psychology and to some day open a youth center.

His ultimate dream, however, is to become famous on the big movie screen.

"My long-term goal is film," D'Angelo said. "I've done quite a bit so far such as promo videos. Right now I just enjoy modeling full time. I have a few interviews set up with car companies."

D'Angelo said he has put his faith in God's hands to help him achieve the rest of his goals and keep him on the right path of life.

"You have to have faith in God and believe in yourself," D'Angelo said. "You can only take one day at a time. It's easier said than done, but you cannot worry about things that you have no control over and that's where stress and drug addiction start taking their place and toll."

Driver remains on the fast track with career

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

Scott Kallita made drag racing history in 1994 when he became the first driver to win four consecutive Top Fuel dragster national championship events in a row.

The milestone seems even more impressive when you realize that Kallita is not a full-time driver. As owner and operator of Transcontinental Airlines, he is a hard working businessman whose wheelings and dealings have expanded the cargo company at racing speed.

Kallita started Transcontinental last August, in the middle of the 24-week drag racing season, with one DC 8. In four months, the fleet has expanded to three planes, with more purchases imminent.

The business has two facets: four days a week it picks up cargo for American International Freight, a company that belongs to his dad, Connie Kallita; and three days a week he charts his DC 8's to carry custom shipments, which have included horses, ostriches, and automotive equipment. The operation employs about 50 people, 10 from the Belleville area.

Expansion of the business has also necessitated new, expanded digs. This month he moved into a 5,000 square-foot office inside a Willow Run hangar. Set up in spacious office with a wide hardwood desk, he surrounds himself with family pictures — several of his wife Kathy and 19-month-old son Corey, and a Houghton Lake hunting camp

At 32, the former Belleville High School graduate is at the peak of his 12-year racing career. He races 5,000-horsepower Top Fuel dragsters, the fastest accelerating cars in the world. So far, his best year was 1993, when he finished second in the Winston standings, and set a record top speed of 308.64 miles per hour for a quarter mile sprint.

"Top Fuel dragsters have one hard seat without padding," he said. "Inside, it's like being on a bridge made of tubing with a giant engine behind you. It's made to do its job."

A top fuel dragster takes off with a force nearly five times that of gravity, a force equal to that on the Space Shuttle at lift off.

"Sometimes everything is a blur; sometimes you get so caught up in the race that adrenaline and the competition take over and you see everything is in slow motion," he said. "A lot of people race for the thrills. I race for the competition."

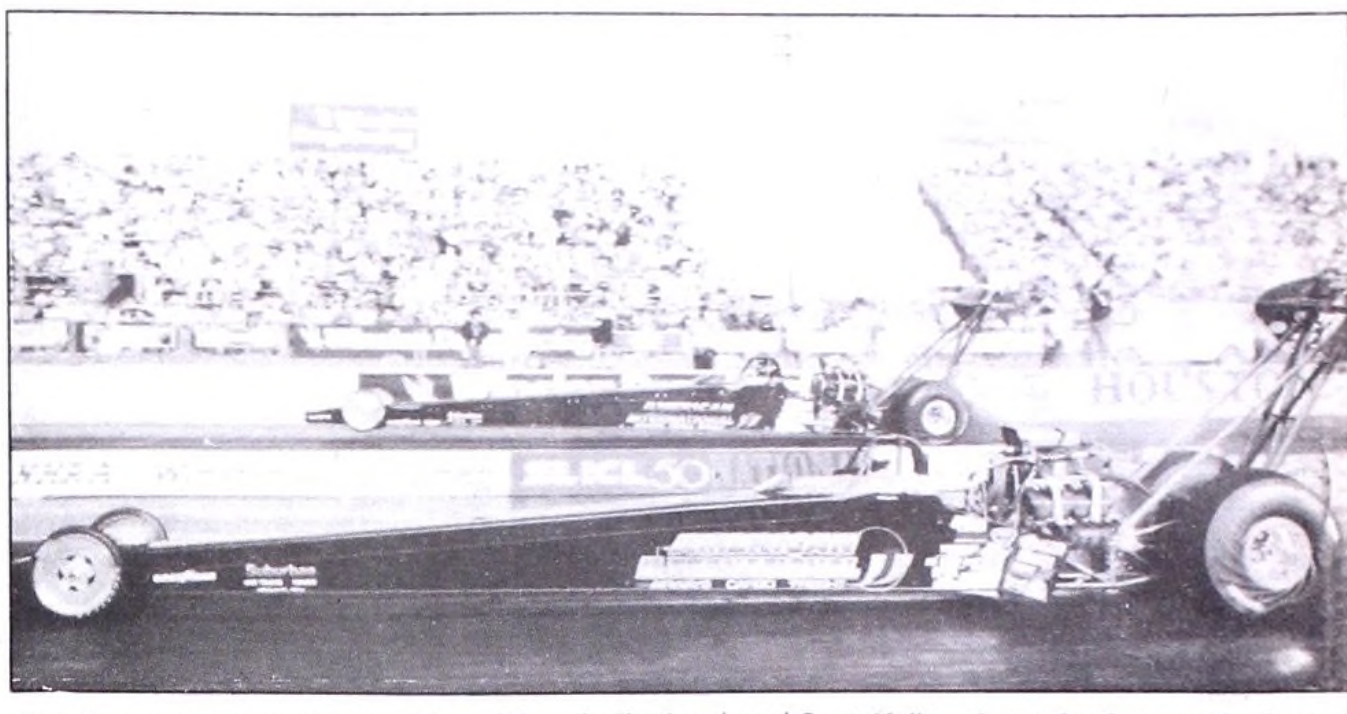

His favorite opponent is his dad, who he has raced six times, winning two.

Good eyesight and reflexes are necessary for professional drivers, he said. Eyesight enables the driver to see the starting signal; reflexes enhance control.

Surprisingly, Kallita said that he doesn't consider the sport dangerous. "It's less dangerous than driving a NASCAR of INDY car because, in Top Fuel, there's only one other car to worry about."

Kallita has two goals: "To win as many races as I can and to beat my father in a final."

With the new season beginning in February, Kallita will soon be pursuing those goals.

With the new season beginning in February, Kallita will soon be pursuing those goals. In the meantime, he's moving into a new home in Chelsea.

"It's hard juggling two jobs and keeping some semblance of home life," he said.

Prisoner's parole decision reversed

Wayne County prosecutor John O'Hair reported that the June 1993 decision of the State Parole Board to parole Odell Sinclair has been reversed by the Wayne County Circuit Court.

Sinclair was convicted in January 1993 as a habitual felony offender for larceny in a building and sentenced to one to years in prison. This constituted his tenth conviction during an 18-year period for crimes carrying maximum sentences of more than 34 years.

The 1993 offense was committed while he was on parole from a prior conviction for larceny from a motor vehicle. Despite his many convictions and the 34 years in maximum sentences, Sinclair had actually served only about five years in prison at the time of the board's decision.

After a prison stay this time of five months, the parole board made a decision that would have paroled Sinclair again and commuted his unserved maximum sentence after 18 months.

O'Hair appealed to the Circuit Court for a stay of enforcement and reversal of the parole decision.

Circuit Judge Kaye Tertzag, in his opinion of reversal, noted that the authority of the Parole Board to release prisoners on parole is limited in cases where "arrangements have been made" for the prisoner's employment, which is especially important for a prisoner who has been a career thief.

O'Hair praised the decision, saying, "The criminal justice system cannot continue to expect taxpayers to pay ten times for the prosecution of the same offender. It cannot continue to administer maximum sentences of clearly unrehabilitated offenders in ways that waste the state's authority."

Don't laugh. He could've been driving a car.

Dozing during a business meeting can be extremely embarrassing. Sleeping through your favorite TV show is disappointing. And nodding off while in the company of friends is a running joke.

But falling asleep while driving is a life-threatening situation, and a major cause of highway accidents.

If you frequently find it difficult to remain alert during the normal course of your day, you may be suffering from a serious - if not life threatening - sleep disorder.

Disorders such as sleep apnea affect your regular, evening sleep patterns causing you to have excessive, debilitating sleepiness during the day. Symptoms include: daytime fatigue, loss of motivation, irritability, reduced effectiveness on the job and the need for excessive amounts of caffeine.

If you're so fatigued that you find it difficult to function normally, the Garden City Hospital Sleep Disorders Center can wake you up. To receive free information or schedule a sleep evaluation call (313) 458-3330.

Old quilt pattern gets new life

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

The secrets uncovered from an old quilt became the guide to preserving the design for the family of Candelaria Prudencia Torres Gutierrez, 91, who currently resides in Belleville.

The Belleville woman, who was born in Texas, is known as Grandma Cande to her family, according to her daughter, Velia Lauerman of Wayne.

Lauerman noted that the fabric pattern of the old family quilt had been hidden among other unfinished projects.

"The dull, pea green print was shining through off-white muslin, which added brilliance to the star-like, octagon shape. Each time the piece surfaced, while we were looking for other patterns for special quilts, the story was similar," Lauerman said.

As the old quilt pattern emerged, Grandma Cande provided many hints and ideas to quilters helping her to organize the collection of old notions.

The seams of the quilt were less than the standard quarter-inch, which is used on quilts today. It is not known if the seams were made smaller or trimmed away when the quilt was made.

"First of all, the paper templates or guides for cutting the small pieces had to be accurate. Fabric was not plentiful for many reasons. Seventy-five years ago, the homemaker recycled not only fabric, but notions," she said.

This design was one of many used by women who, out of necessity, made quilts to add to the comfort of their families.

Quilting was not considered a "special craft," but some quilters were more creative and inventive.

A 12-inch square was named LaManuelita, because Grandma Candes' mother, Manuela Ortiz Torres, who was born about 1870, had given it to her.

The family learned that Manuela Torres had picked cotton and knew the value of teaching her children to use the left-over fibers that could not be sold. After the fibers were gathered and flattened to a layer, it could be used in between a sheet and possibly feed sacks sewn together for a backing to form a bed cover or a mattress. Three layers of cotton sewn together could add lots of warmth for chilly Texas nights, the family was told.

"The quilts were used for bedding and decoration as well. Sewing helped to fill time and gave women recognition for their labors," Lauerman said. "The tiny stitches on many items, not only bed covers, were thought to be worthy of a real woman."

Grandma Cande told her family that once developed her abilities at sewing, she was admired as a "mujer," or real woman.

Lauerman said the stitches on the quilt are certainly those of a "real woman." - made with a tiny, inch-long needle, which was well guarded and scarce.

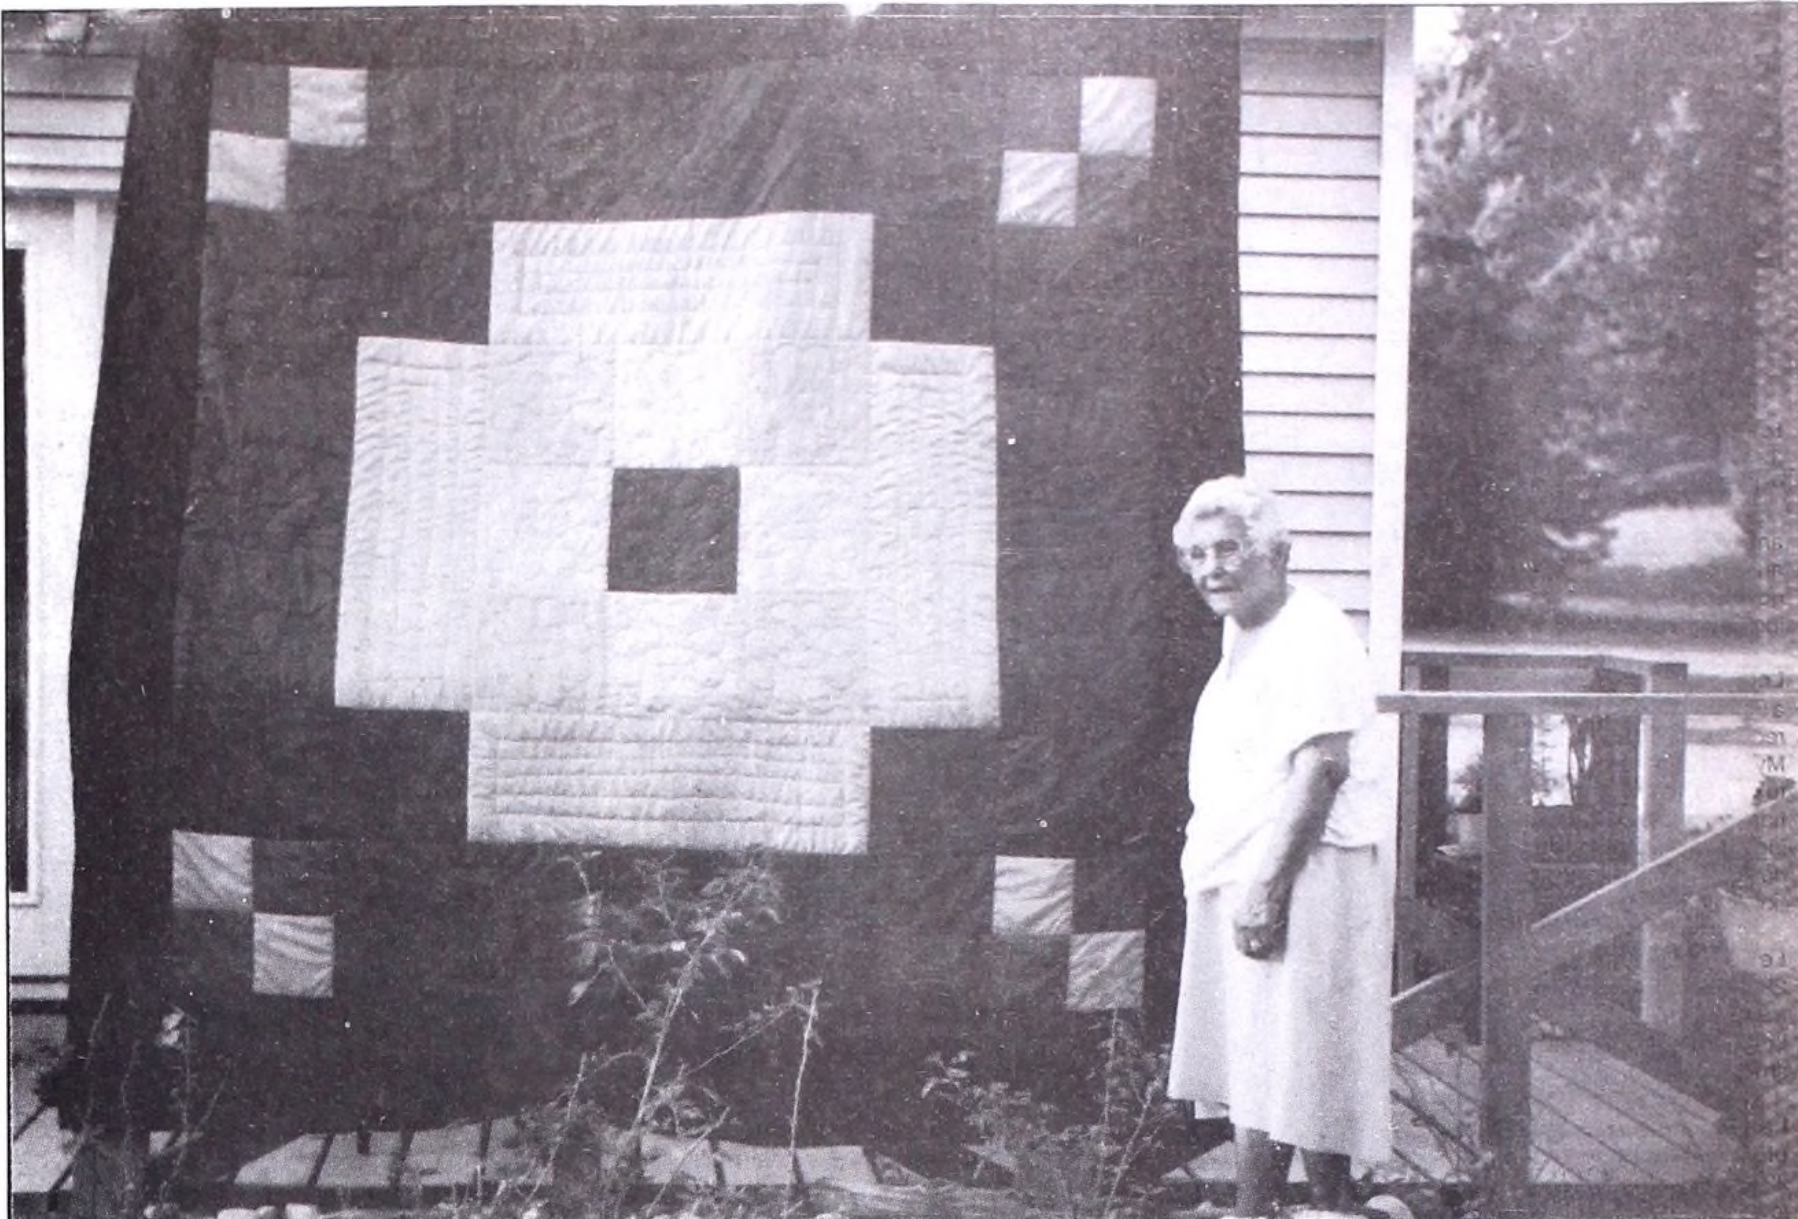

Skilled seamstresses also made infants clothing and delicate dresses, many of which had rounded hems and trims made by hand, Lauerman said. Even though the pay was small for the handmade garments, the designing and sewing increased the skills of the women.

New designs were few and are between, but the star-like beauty sewn by Manuela Torres remained through the decades, Lauerman said.

Not until lately when Grandma Cande has felt the pressure of time as she made memorials of her sewing for her descendants was her mother's quilt pattern named LaManuelita in her honor.

At age 91, she had designed and stitched many unique quilts for her family and friends. Eight Lone-Star designs, which feature symbols of Texas - blue bonnets, the Alamo, flags of Spain, Mexico, Texas and France and a mocking bird.

In December, LaManuelita - a green and pink, 30-blocked quilt - was completed and presented to her first daughter-in-law.

Area soccer tryouts kick off this week

By GRETCHEN MADICK
MCN Staff Writer

If you have the right kind of speed, technique, kick and talent and you are between 11 and 19 years of age, you may qualify to participate in an international soccer tour.

Tryouts are being conducted at the Canton Soccer Dome for the 1995 European and South American tours of the East-West Ambassadors from 5 to 7 p.m. Jan. 22.

East-West is a non-profit organization which has sent over 5,000 athletic diplomats overseas to six different continents and 41 countries. With full White House support from the current administration and two previous ones, they profess to lead youth in sports, development and cultural exchange.

Canton is one of 96 sites where tryouts are being offered. Hundreds of alumni have earned college scholarship money through this organization, which is approaching the $3 million mark collectively.

Hundreds of alumni have earned college scholarship money through this organization, which is approaching the $3 million mark collectively.

Countries cited as possibly being part of the tour include Argentina, Denmark, England, Germany and Sweden. International soccer tournaments such as Gothia Cup, Dana Cup and Manchester United International Football Festival may be included.

Registration is $20, and youths must bring their own ball to try out. Call 813-954-5425 for more information.

Horticulturist helps others to help themselves through education

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Managing Editor

What you see, you may doubt. What you hear, you may not believe, but what you do for yourself will stay with you forever.

The philosophy of helping others by teaching them how to do things for themselves has motivated the life and career of Sumpter Township resident Donald Juchartz.

"I've tried to provide information and technology to help people to live better," Juchartz said, referring to his four decades as a horticulturist. "Fortunately, I've always been in a situation where I've had to learn, and I've been able to pass that knowledge on."

During his career, he has been a practicing, teaching and consulting horticulturist, along with hosting a long-running radio program on the subject.

His long career started as a young ex-serviceman at Michigan State University when his professors advised him to enter the horticultural field and to focus on working with people. At first, he had planned to take a two-year course with farming as a goal.

"Don't waste your time on a two-year program. Go for four years, and get a broad background," was the professor's advice, which Juchartz followed.

At the same time, he became interested in broadcasting, and performed his first radio broadcast as a college senior.

"Forty years later, I've done over 16,000 shows. I have the longest running horticultural show in the U.S.," said Juchartz. "I've also done some 150 television shows, starting with a Channel 4 Saturday morning program called Country Living."

Through the years, Juchartz has noted that the interest of the public seems to have turned from questions on how to grow plants to how to grow perfect ones.

"There's a changing perception. People don't seem to be satisfied with less than perfection. They don't want weeds or bugs in their gardens. They want a perfect lawn, not just a green one," he said.

During his 35 years with the Michigan State University Extension Service and county extension programs, Juchartz became a well-known expert on all facets of his field from agriculture to back-yard gardening.

"In the next 25 years, I expect to see a new concept in greenhouse growing. Food will be warehouse-grown with the light, temperature and nutrients regulated in a 'plant factory.' Each floor of the warehouse will be regulated for the growing of specific foods," Juchartz predicted. "It will be a boom for urban areas. Old warehouses could be retro-fitted for the new use, and the produce would be close to the markets - saving transportation costs."

Because of his wide knowledge and experience, Juchartz has been dubbed the "elder statesman of horticulture."

"Today, most students in colleges are specializing in one area of horticulture, so there aren't many of us with a broad range of experience in all areas of the field," Juchartz noted.

After his retirement, Juchartz utilized his years of experience as a consultant.

"My phone never stopped ringing. I had clients in 35 states, four European countries, two South American countries and four Canadian provinces. It was so successful, that I was soon back to work again," Juchartz said. "Now, I've retired from consulting. I've retired, but I'll never quit. I'll never stop helping people."

His volunteer work continues as an elder and for the 1,400-member St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Waltz, and his duties with the Belleville Rotary Club.

Donald Juchartz

"I've been a Rotarian for 31-1/2 years and a district official for many years, and I'll continue my Rotary work," Juchartz said.

Juchartz takes special pride in the anti-polio program which the Rotarians have adopted with the goal of eradicating the world of the disease.

"Some 620 million children have been inoculated. The program was put in place by all volunteers, funded by donations from Rotarians. It's an effort that could not have been put together by individual governments," Juchartz said. "Imagine in one day, 120 million children in China were inoculated during a national immunization day."

"Because of immunization programs here, we don't consider polio a threat. In fact, most people have never encountered a person with the disease. This is not so in India where it touches all families. I have talked to Indian people who tell me that polio still cripples many children in their country," Juchartz said.

The world-wide effort to eradicate polio has not received a great deal of publicity, Juchartz noted, because Rotarians "do not like to blow their own horn." He said their attitude is that, "those who need to know, will know."

During his second retirement, Juchartz plans to study watercolor painting and enjoy life with his long-time helpmate, Doris.

The Juchartz family took up residence in the Wyandotte area 123 years ago, and his family name, he recently learned, is an old German word for shepherd - an appropriate name for one who has spent a lifetime teaching and devoting his life to others.

Head Start pupils receive gift of reading

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

Some 400 smiling children received "the gift of reading" during the holidays.

In a drive, co-sponsored by the Inkster Literacy Council and Michigan Community Newspapers, 400 books were collected and presented to Inkster Head Start participants.

The book drive was a success, according to Selenia Robinson, literacy council coordinator, and Delores James, director of Inkster Community and Adult Education.

"As we continue to give the gift of reading to the Head Start children, we sincerely hope that each one of those who contributed books will share in our feeling of joy," Robinson said. "The books are gifts that will provide enjoyment to the children for a long time and encourage them to read. We believe these books will help to open the door to a love of learning for these children."

Robinson said the book drive will continue to focus on Head Start pupils, but books for older students also will be accepted.

"Our book drive for the Head Start pupils is an ongoing project, but we are finding that there also is a need for books for older children. Books could be donated to the Inkster Library, Inkster Public Schools and area day care programs," Robinson said. "People who wish to donate books any time of the year, may bring them to the Inkster Literacy Council or to Michigan Community Newspapers' offices in Wayne or Belleville."

"Thanks to all the participants, we went over the amount of books needed. More than 400 books were contributed," Robinson said.

In addition to the books donated by the staff and readers of Michigan Community Newspapers, donations were made by the following groups: Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority (Willa Miller); Delta Sigma Theta (Dr. Barbara Diamond); Zeta Phi Beta Sorority (Irma Watson); Zeta Nu Zeta, Inkster Chapter; Inkster Federation of Teachers (Norm Alred); Inkster Literacy Council; Gamma Phi Delta (Carolyn Kimbrough), and new participants, YWCA Informats Club (Mary Ribbron).

Busy baker

Friends, co-workers sample cook's specialties

By GRETCHEN MADICK
MCN Staff Writer

When other families are taking down their Christmas decorations and putting away their empty cookie tins, Diane Zielinski is shopping the sales for next year's supply of tins. "I give to co-workers, clients and friends. I may give away 20 canisters," Zielinski said. "Every year I say, I won't do it, but people expect it. Wise people recycle to make sure they stay on my list. I've been doing this for 10 years. My hands used to be red through the holidays from washing the baking utensils."

Zielinski, who is a Realtor associate at Huron Valley Realty in Belleville, has improved her recipe choices over the years, finding quick and easy recipes which make large quantities, making the baking process easier.

For Microwave Fudge she doesn't dirty a bowl.

"Just put Saran wrap on the bottom. It just takes about three minutes. It cooks quickly and you can cut it up the same day," she said.

Spicy Nuts cookies are an easy, egg-white mixture of cinnamon and sugar; a nice Christmas recipe for volume because they're quick.

A Belleville resident since the fourth grade, Zielinski has more time now since starting a new, full-time job working in real estate. She recently retired from her post as administrative assistant to the vice president of finance at Washtenaw Community College after 27 years. She gives cookies to her friends where she used to work, to all her new co-workers, to the mail carrier and the newspaper people.

She reads a lot of papers to keep up on community events and to answer questions from clients. Her previous job has helped her because she sends out a lot of correspondence.

An avid collector of recipes and cook books, Zielinski says she just loves to read the recipes. She has a unique method of collecting cut outs from newspaper clippings.

"I take a binder and have it indexed into meats, deserts, salads, casseroles and appetizers," she said.

She uses stick glue to put recipes in the book. When she's home or not feeling well, it makes a good project to do them once a year, she said.

Zielinski also seems to collect pets. She has three dogs and four cats. "Toby, the Terrible" is the terrier who lives up to his reputation at her home, as well as a pomeranian and an Irish setter. They ignore her baking, although she has to watch the cats.

"I have to keep cats off the counter when I'm baking," she said.

Real estate has always appealed to Zielinski. "I always thought I would like it. Because I was retiring I could try a new profession without being too afraid. She has a flexible work schedule with a lot of diversity on the job where office time can be scheduled on a monthly basis.

"I sold my first house a couple of months after I started. This gave me encouragement," she said.

"I hope to have more time to enjoy cooking and plan to try more recipes in 1995," Zielinski said, noting that she'll have to find more cookie tins!

Parks offer winter events

Events are scheduled throughout the year at the Huron-Clinton Metroparks with several winter programs featured in the future.

Ice fishing for beginners is the theme of the 2 p.m. Jan. 29 activity at Oakwoods Metropark.

Participants will learn about proper clothing, equipment, rules and techniques of ice fishing at the Nature Center at the park. If weather permits, an outdoor demonstration will be staged.

Pre-registration is required for all programs. Advanced registration may be made by calling 1-800-47-PARKS.

I give to co-workers, clients and friends. I may give away 20 canisters.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE
1/2 cup Karo light or dark corn syrup
1/3 cup evaporated milk
3 cups (18-oz.) semi-sweet chocolate chips
3/4 cup sifted confectioner sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
1-1/2 cups coarsely chopped walnuts

Line an eight-inch-square, microwave-safe baking pan with plastic wrap. In a three-quart microwaveable bowl, combine corn syrup and evaporated milk. Stir until well blended. Microwave on high (100 percent) for three minutes. Stir in chocolate chips until melted. Stir in confectioners sugar, vanilla and walnuts. Beat until thick and glossy with wooden spoon. Spread in prepared pan. Refrigerate two hours or until firm.

Makes 25 squares.

SPICY SUGARED NUTS
1 tablespoon egg white
2 cups pecans or walnuts
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cinnamon
Heat oven to 300 degrees. Place nuts in small bowl. Pour egg white over nuts and stir until nuts are coated and sticky. Mix sugar and cinnamon. Sprinkle over nuts. Stir until sugar mixture completely coats nuts. Spread on ungreased baking sheet. Bake 30 minutes.

Makes about 2 cups.

NUTMEG LOGS
Sift Together:
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon nutmeg
Cream Together:

1 cup butter or margarine
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 teaspoons rum flavoring
Zielinski said, noting that she'll have to find more cookie tins!

Gradually add 3/4 cup sugar and cream well. Blend in one unbeaten egg. Gradually add dry ingredients and blend thoroughly. Shape into 1-1/2-inch logs. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet 350 degrees 12-15 minutes.

FROSTING
Cream:
3 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon rum flavoring
1/2 cup confectioner sugar
Add:
2 cups sifted confectioner sugar and two or three tablespoons evaporated milk.

Beat well. Frost top and both sides of log. Run fork over log and sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes 3 dozen.

You can have your very own psychic network.

You don't need to be clairvoyant to know who's calling when the phone rings. You need Caller ID.

With Ameritech's Caller ID, you can see the name and number of your caller in the window of the display box. So you'll have the foresight to either pick up the phone personally or have your Voice Mail pick up for you. It's that easy.

And for the next 30 days, it's free, too. Just call 1-800-AROUND-U, and we'll sign you up for service and send you a display box—free for 30 days. And if, within that time, Caller ID isn't what you predicted it would be, send the box back at our expense. No risks. No regrets.

And no reason not to try Caller ID from Ameritech, free for 30 days. This way you can save your psychic powers for more important things. Like finding your car keys.

Try Caller ID FREE for 30 days.

Not available in all areas. Both parties must be in specially equipped areas for service to work. Applies to residential service only. Offer applies to residents of MI only.

Quote of the Week

"We have to look at where within the budget we can make recommendations to balance the budget. We've already cut $14 million (over the last three years)."

Dr. Larry Thomas, superintendent of the Wayne-Westland School District, commenting on the recent decision by the board to offer early retirement incentives to top paid teachers. The incentives are expected to save the district $1.2 million by next school year if 120 teachers and 10 administrators decide to retire early.

Of Note

Motorist unhurt after car shooting

A 19-year-old Romulus motorist escaped death when a passing driver pumped four shots into the side of his car at Fourth Street and Van Born Road, Romulus police reported Friday.

Darrell Waller of Romulus told police he had just stopped on Fourth Street shortly before midnight Jan. 12, when the shots smashed his driver's side window and struck his steering wheel.

Waller sustained only minor cuts from the shattered glass as he fled from the scene to a friend's home.

Waller informed police of the incident and the defendant, Rafael Thomas, also 19, of Romulus, was arrested on Jan. 17. Thomas was arraigned before 34th District Court Judge Tina Brooks Green last Wednesday on charges of assault with intent to commit murder and felony firearm. Bail was set at $25,000 cash with a pre-trial hearing set for Wednesday in the 34th District Court.

Police said the shooting was a follow-up to an earlier altercation between acquaintances.

Police said the gun was not recovered.

Probation issued in shotgun assault

A Wayne man charged with felonious assault for allegedly pointing a gun at his neighbor received two years probation Jan. 11 before Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge Harvey Tennen.

Allen John Serrin, 50, plead guilty to the felonious assault charge. The incident resulted allegedly because Serrin was upset about a neighbor's grandchild who was playing ball 5:45 p.m. Sept. 10, had lost the ball and it rolled onto the defendant's property.

"The defendant and the neighbor have backyards that are adjoining," said Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews. "When the ball rolled onto the defendant's lawn, he got upset and started shouting obscenities to the child."

Drews said the grandfather came out of the house and allegedly told the neighbor if he had a problem with the child he should talk to him and not the child in such a harsh manner.

The neighbor went inside his house and then brought out a shotgun and allegedly pointed it at the grandfather.

Police were called in to handle the incident. No injuries occurred.

Purse snatched from Westland woman

A 37-year-old Westland woman was allegedly robbed of her purse, which contained $60 cash, by a man who offered to help her get home from Detroit, according to Westland police.

The alleged incident occurred around 1:15 p.m. Jan. 15 at the intersection of Ford and Wildwood roads after the woman exited a bus she was riding with the alleged assailant, police said.

The alleged thief is described as a 36-year-old black male, wearing blue jeans and a black jacket torn on the left side.

Killed for peanuts
Gunmen spray car with bullets, 1 arrestedBy TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Did peanuts cost a 21-year-old Dearborn Heights man his life?

Inkster police believe so. They have a 15-year-old local youth in custody who they believe shot and killed Alan Keith Mertz last November after the victim attempted to return peanuts sold to him as crack cocaine to get his money back.

Mertz's bullet-riddled body was discovered in his car after the victim lost control in the 26000 block of Stanford Street and rammed the vehicle into a tree.

Police believe Mertz was shot and killed on Stanford Street, between John Daly and Beech Daly. Would-be drug-dealers turned killers because they feared that Mertz "was trouble", police theorize.

Gunmen sprayed the victim's car, killing the occupant.

"The suspect is a 15-year-old who has been ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination."

Defective Gary Lorenzen

Inkster police got a break in their homicide investigation after Inkster narcotics officers arrested the suspect on a drug-related incident.

"Our narcotics unit, acting on information they had received, supplied us with a key witness that helped us break this homicide case," said Inkster Detective Gary Lorenzen. "The suspect is a 15-year-old who has been ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination."

The defendant appeared in 22nd District Court to answer to murder charges and, upon the request of his attorney, Judge Sylvia James agreed to postpone the examination until a competency test was conducted.

Usually it takes between 30 to 90 days for a psychiatric evaluation, police said.

Inkster police speculate that the victim came to Inkster on Nov. 2 to buy drugs. Instead he got "ganked", a term used by the dealers and drug users when a consumer is sold fraudulent drugs.

In Mertz's case, police believe Mertz was given "peanuts" instead of rock cocaine. Police theorize that Mertz drove off and then popped what he thought was rock cocaine and realized that it was a peanut, and that he had been "ganked".

He then returned to the area to find those who tricked him. However, the would-be drug dealers spotted the car and went after the drive, police believe, and shot up the car, striking the victim

Chris has fun and he takes his audiences with him. The name of his act, Phaze III, refers to the family of three magicians, stunning or "phasing" the audience.

Once shy, he now credits magic with "turning his life around."

Canton resident Moss, his wife, Audrey, and son Jordan, 12, have performed their magic act state-wide, including performances in Ann Arbor, Brighton, Colon, Detroit, Mackinac Island, Westland and Wixom. They performed at Ar etha Franklin's birthday party and have trav-

How can anyone who is robbed at gun point or shot in the face at point blank range be considered "lucky"?

But Richard Gagnon may think he is. The 25-year-old Taylor man was robbed and shot in the face Tuesday night while delivering pizza in the city of Inkster.

The victim lived through the ordeal.

Gagnon was rushed to Garden City Hospital and later airlifted by helicopter to the University of Michigan Hospital where he was treated for the gunshot wound and released.

Doctors will not have to remove the bullet.

According to reports, the bullet was lodged in the victim's sinus cavity and en route to the hospital he coughed up the slug.

"He (Gagnon) should consider himself very lucky," said Inkster Detective James Vergona. "There are not a lot of people who get shot in the face with a 38 (caliber bullet) and live to talk about it."

Vergona said a 16-year-old Inkster resident is in custody. He surrendered to police, after detectives informed close relations that he was wanted for questioning. The suspect was scheduled to be arraigned Friday in 22nd District Court.

"We know his (the suspect's) involvement in this case," Vergona said. "There are others we would like to talk to. This investigation is ongoing."

The suspect, whose name is being withheld because of his juvenile status, will be charged with attempted murder, armed robbery and the use of a firearm in the commission of a felony stemming from the robbery-shooting case, Vergona added.

When Gagnon pulled his vehicle out of the Hungry Howie's pizza restaurant on Inkster Road late Tuesday evening, someone else, like in guardian angel, may have hitched a ride with him.

Gagnon's destination was a house in the 26800 block of Wayne-Westland parents allege

Head Start staff abused childrenBy IVAN HELFMAN

A group of four parents surprised Ron Barratt, Wayne-Westland Community Schools special education supervisor, and alleged that teachers have been hitting preschool children enrolled in the Head Start program at one of five program sites in the district.

Though unexpectedly approached while on his way to a Thursday afternoon meeting at Hicks Elementary School in Inkster, Barratt listened to the women complain that their children come home from Head Start with "unexplained bruises and welts" and emotional problems.

"Children are afraid to go to school. They're afraid for their lives," said the group spokeswoman. "My son says that teachers are hitting him and that children are fighting with each other. Where's the supervision?"

Another woman complained that her son has been so abused that he comes home from Head Start "unable to go to the bathroom," and has started to talk in his sleep.

In contrast, a fifth mother, Michelle Coiner, said that her daughter, a Head Start pre-schooler in the same class, "has not seen anybody spanked, grabbed or punished."

Mary Ann Ellis, temporary Head Start site director, said corporal punishment is contrary to the program's policy.

The four parents also complained that Head Start has been reporting bruised or marked children to Protective Services, a branch of Michigan Department of Social Services that investigates child abuse.

"This is a major concern," said the spokeswoman.

Ellis said that two children were recently reported to Protective Services in accordance with regulations that obligate Head Start to report children with signs of abuse.

The encounter ended with Barratt and Ellis scheduling a private meeting with the mothers to be held on the following day.

"We will work on a plan of action," said Ellis.

However, the spokeswoman said that the teachers must be suspended for two weeks, otherwise she and the others would remove their children from the program.

The federally funded Head Start provides pre-school, food and family services for low-income families. Head Start serves 291 children at Wayne-Westland schools.

Council approves waste-to-energy plan

After a vote denying the measure two weeks prior, Westland City Council voted 4-3 to approve an agreement to burn its trash and convert it into energy with an agreement with the cities of Wayne, Inkster, Dearborn Heights and Garden City.

The vote in Westland was the deciding factor in the waste-to-energy agreement between the five cities through the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority (CWCSA) which operates the Dearborn Heights incinerator.

When the measure was first presented to the council Jan. 3, it was turned down by a 4-3 with council members

Glenn Anderson, Sharon Scott, Charles Pickering and Sandra Cicerelli voting against the plan which commits the five communities to a 35 to 40 year contract participating in the waste-to-energy method of trash incineration. Scott reconsidered the issue, however, and brought it back to the council casting the deciding vote in favor.

"I think cooler heads have prevailed. I see some of the concerns by the dissenters more a result of not being informed than anything else," said Erik Schaeffer, executive director of CWCSA.

Council members in favor of the plan said waste-to-energy would benefit the recycling effort.

"This plan will absolutely enhance and give incentive to a recycling program," Griffin said.

Man assaults 2, destroys property

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

A 28-year-old Westland man found himself facing three misdemeanor charges and two felony counts after allegedly going on a rampage which left two people injured and a duplex and car destroyed, according to Westland police Sgt. Scott Fetner.

John Douglas Rowe has already been convicted of two counts of malicious destruction of property and spouse abuse for the attack on his ex-girlfriend and her residence, Fetner said. He was sentenced to 90 days in jail for the offenses.

After waiving his right to preliminary examination in

John Douglas Rowe has already been convicted of two counts of malicious destruction of property and spouse abuse for the attack on his ex-girlfriend...

Westland 18th District Court, Rowe was bound over to Detroit Recorder's Court on charges of felonious assault and malicious destruction of property over $100.

The destruction began when Rowe, who was visiting an acquaintance at his Westland home, located on the 32400 block of Lenawee Street, became upset with Rowe and made him leave the residence, Fetner said.

The two men, who had known each other for approximately two weeks, were allegedly drinking alcohol around 3:30 a.m. Jan. 11 when a fight erupted between them.

Once outside, the allegedly intoxicated defendant began tearing apart the man's car, smashing the windows and ripping apart the interior, according to Fetner.

The alleged victim approached Rowe to stop the activity when the defendant allegedly picked up a broken glass bottle and struck him in the forehead. The victim was transported to Annapolis Hospital where he was treated and released with 16 stitches, Fetner said.

Rowe then apparently went to his ex-girlfriend's home, located on the 32600 block of Menominee Street, where he broke out windows and damaged the door of the duplex she was renting.

Once inside, Rowe pushed the woman around and began breaking furniture and other items in the home, Fetner said.

Rowe, who is being held on a $100,000/10-percent bond, faces a maximum sentence of four years in prison for the assault and up to two years for the property destruction.

Trial set in alleged Technicolor assault

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

Two former Technicolor Video Cassette temporary employees charged with stabbing a co-worker in the head with a foot-long metal chisel, are scheduled to face separate trials in Detroit Recorder's Court June 14.

Detroit resident Carlos Westley Fanning, 35, will face a jury trial and Johnny Ezell Williamson, a 30-year-old Detroit resident, has requested a bench trial. Both men were charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm and face up to life imprisonment if convicted of the charges.

Both men, who are being held on $150,000 cash bonds, were on a work release program at the Westland facility while serving time in prison on felony convictions when the stabbing occurred. Fanning has been convicted of second-degree murder and Williamson has been convicted of armed robbery, according to Westland 18th District Court Administrator Dave Wiacek. The two reside at Woodward Male Corrections Center, according to police.

The victim, 21-year-old Elton McKnight testified that the incident occurred when the employees returned from a break around 10 a.m. Oct. 12, 1994 and signed in upon their return, according to testimony taken during preliminary examination in 18th District Court. An altercation arose between McKnight and Fanning.

"I heard Elton rush Carlos to sign his name. Carlos and Johnny were talking and Elton was butting in and they told him to shut up," worker Keyko Clark testified.

"I saw Johnny and another guy come from the back of the plant and I saw him (Johnny) hand Carlos the chisel. Carlos pushed it a little up his sleeve and jumped over the line and stuck him (McKnight)," Clark testified, adding that the chisel fell to the ground and Fanning picked it up and tried to swing at the victim again.

At that point McKnight went after Fanning and as the two were struggling on a conveyor belt, plant personnel attempted to break them apart.

According to McKnight, Williamson jumped on his back and held him as Fanning ripped a gold chain from his neck.

"I heard one of the two fellows say 'I got it man,'" Clark said, referring to the missing chisel. "Carlos and Johnny went running to the bathroom to wash the blood off," Clark added.

Wayne County Prosecuting attorney Maria Petito sought the amended charges of assault with intent to commit murder against both defendants, however, Wayne County Prosecutor Charles Grant decided not to amend the charge.

Petito said a one-inch hole in the complainant's temple prompted her to seek the increased charges.

"He was hit in the head with a chisel. That's pretty deadly," Petito said.

WASTE

Councilman Charles Pickering said he refused to support the waste-to-energy plan because "it makes us dependent upon the incinerator. It's a profit-making business. If we reuse, recycle," said CHECK representative Kathleen Pare. "...we're making an incinerator of the sky."

Area union workers fought for the incinerator project.

"The authority made a commitment to the environment. There are 24 union employees affected and our families," said Rob Suida, plant supervisor of CWCSA. "Do the environmentally responsible thing and stay in compliance with the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) and DNR (Department of Natural Resources)."

"I believe incineration is the future. It will create more jobs," Westland resident John Shelton said.

According to Thomas Barnett, project manager for the CWCSA, none of the five communities will be responsible for any of the financing of the $70 million project. The start-up and upgrading costs will be furnished by Baltimore Gas and Electric and its subsidiaries, Barnett said. These costs include air pollution control equipment, energy recovery equipment and upgrading current incinerator equipment.

"These costs will be offset by the electricity generated," Barnett said.

According to Barnett, the waste-to-energy agreement was officially signed Thursday. Construction on the incinerator is expected to begin within a year and the plant will function as a waste-to-energy facility within two to three years, Barnett said.

The CWCSA has been seeking a source to resolve their financial dilemma since the EPA ordered the board of directors to retrofit the present sign this agreement we're driven by profit."

The remaining four communities council's voted 25 in favor, two opposed and one absent, according to Schaeffer.

At first, Westland Council delayed the measure, opting to consider recycling instead. At a special meeting Jan. 9, Councilman David Cox proposed a pilot program to test the effectiveness of curbside recycling.

"If the city chooses to go to 100-percent recycling, it does not cost one dollar under this agreement," said Plymouth attorney C. Brian James who represents CWCSA.

"It doesn't have a flow control requirement," Cox added. "It really gives us more funding to initiate a recycling program."

Several concerned residents and those from surrounding communities showed up to voice their disapproval of the plan, citing not only health and environmental hazards, but also the costs if the project fails.

"It's a similar situation in Madison Heights. We have 14 communities using the incinerator over 33 years ... for waste-to-energy," Pamela Ornter-Mukavetz, a nurse for Medical Care Coordinators in Roseville said. "You create new substances when you burn trash. Our community had a 50-percent higher lung and bronchial cancer rate."

"It has a negative impact on Federal Elementary School which is nearly a stone's throw away. Why have you chosen to turn a blind eye ... to the incinerator," a member of Concern for the Health and Environment of our Community's Kids (CHECK) said.

"We need to look at reduce, system with the required scrubbing chambers and bag house, which would cost, according to sanitation officials, approximately $10 million.

The waste-to-energy project would keep the present incinerator in operation and preserve about 24 jobs, create some 200 new jobs and return to the communities a portion of the funds that the corporation would realize from the sale of the energy to Detroit Edison.

The CWCSA was established in 1958 to evaluate and find solutions to disposing of trash and debris in the five communities. At that time, the cities decided to dispose of the solid waste generated in their cities through incineration and, via a tax levy, raised funds to construct a plant located at 4901 S. Inkster Road, Dearborn Heights.

Members of the Authority selected incineration of solid waste in order to reduce reliance on landfills, which have been charging prime rates in recent years. The residue from the incineration from two 250-ton per day furnaces is taken to a landfill owned by the Authority and located in Huron Township.

However, CWCSA officials said that newly-adopted amendments to the Clean Air Act of 1990 necessitated an upgrade of the Air Pollution Control equipment at the incinerator facility which would force the board to either go to the taxpayers for additional funds, shut down in a year, or find a "partner that would help resolve the problem."

The local plant is one of four community groups in Michigan to operate a waste-to-energy facility with a total of 150 in operation around the United States, Barnett said.

The trick he's most proud of is the "dove to boy," where the dove becomes a rabbit and the rabbit turns into Jordan. In another trick, Jordan gets "cut" into six pieces.

Audrey's help backstage makes Chris look good.

Of the 120 children involved in five classrooms of Head Start at Central Middle School this year, Linda Bright's 3- and 4-year-olds took some time out of their busy schedules to think about, "I have a dream," on Martin Luther King's Day and share the dreams they hold for their futures.

Nathan Daubresse has a dream, "that I can be a firefighter. I'm gonna spray houses and go in houses and rescue people."

His companion, Benjamin Garrett shares his sentiments, "that I can be a fireman. I'll spray out the fire," he said.

In the medical profession we can look forward to the help of Marissa Garcia, Samantha Chapman and Gloria Young.

Marissa said, "I can be a nurse and a doctor. I'm gonna let people not get sick." Samantha's response was, "I can be a doctor and take care of my Mommy. I'll take care of Grandma, too."

Gloria is interested in preventative medicine, saying, "I can be a nurse. I'll check somebody so that they don't get sick."

Mansi Patel's wish is "that I can be a Mom and cook stuff and get myself ready and go by myself to school."

Krisi Morse intends to be "cooking tuna fish sandwiches for three children."

Michael Romanko wants to be an astronaut and Cameron Smith offered to be the patient, for imaginary purposes only.

Romulus youngsters have grown-up wishes

Romulus youngsters currently attending My Friends and Me pre-school classes at Mount Pleasant School have no doubts what they want to do when they mature.

Pretty four-year-old Katelyn Crossman (who is proud she will turn five in February) revealed this week she "definitely wants to be a ballerina, because they are pretty and wear classy clothes."

Joshua Zilka, 4, said he wants to be a truck driver.

"I like to watch trucks and my dad drives a truck. When I grow up, I want to drive across the country and also be able to help out my dad when he gets tired," Joshua said.

Rachel Landreville, also 4,

Joshua Wells

stated she wants to be a doctor because she likes to help people and Joshua Wells, 5, explained he thinks he would enjoy paving driveways for a living when he gets older.

Westland first-graders express hopes for future careers

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

First-grade Westland students in Carol Brockhouse's Stottlemeyer Elementary School class have high aspirations for their future careers.

While Calynn Lustig, 7, wants to be a teacher, her classmate Kristina Smith, also 7, has been reading up on what it's like to be a doctor.

"I have a book at my house," Smith said.

Matthew Dudash, 6, would also like to help people but prefers to do so by battling blazes as a fireman. His classmate Ryan Kalis, also 6, has his eyes set on the sky for a career. Kalis wants to explore the world beyond as a spaceman.

"I want to see the moon and be on the moon," Kalis said.

Keeping in shape and teaching students about physical fitness is what 6-year-old Patricia O'Neil hopes to do as a gymnastic instructor. Kristein Tabangura, 6, would like to follow in her mother's footsteps and become a nurse.

Craig Chambers, 7, said he would like to prevent violence by becoming a police officer.

"I don't like it when people get hurt," Chambers said.

Schambers looks up to Westland Drug Awareness Resistance Education (DARE) officer David Hooper as a role model.

One student couldn't quite make up his mind on a career, but one thing was for sure, he wanted to earn lots of money.

"I want to have a cool house. I want to dress cool with an office tie and penny loafers," 6-year-old Kevin Murray said.

The young student said he wanted to be a mathematician, engineer or a "chaositian," which he referred to as an inventor. Murray said his father is an engineer and he knows a mathematician and got the idea for a "chaositian" from the movie, Jurassic Park.

Captain encourages area residents to think positive

By Capt. Roger Senn

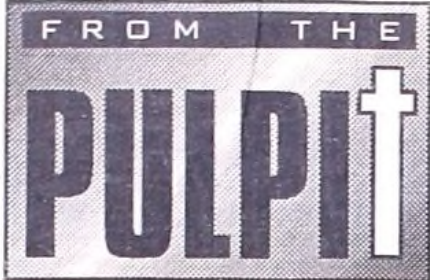

The apostle Paul in II Corinthians 12:9 gives an account of how the Lord spoke to him with these words, "My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness."

One of the greatest characteristics of the human being is his or her ability to turn a minus into a plus. We have all heard the old familiar saying, "If life gives you a lemon, make lemonade."

However, there are so many people in our world today who do just the opposite. There are those who have the tendency to give up when they find that life has given them a lemon; having that dark feeling that fate is against them and they don't have a chance.

The person with lemons-infirmities and handicaps can either build a successful life because of them or destroy his life because of them. The apostle Paul goes on in II Corinthians to further state, "I take pleasure in my infirmities."

The wise person seeks to learn to grow from his misfortune and turn it into fortune remembering that success is not mostly pleasure, it is mostly achieving. The wonder of success is to turn impossibility into reality.

Paul came to the place in his life, where he could see how God's grace could transform what was bad into something good in his life. It is the same principle that he is stating in Romans 8:28 when he declares that "all things work together for good to those who love God and are the called according to his purpose."

He wasn't saying that everything that happened was good. Let's face it, bad things happen to good people. He wasn't saying that everything was necessarily what God had purposely willed to happen.

But, out of experience Paul learned that God could take our weaknesses and use them to demonstrate His power. Paul was affirming that there is nothing that can happen to one of God's children that, if we turn to Him with it, He cannot take us from where we are and begin working some good. He surrounds us with a grace that enables us to transform anything that happens to us.

When the world feels like it is caving in around you and there is nothing you can do to change your circumstances, where do you go to find your strength and hope?

Whatever Paul was facing, his hope did not rest in his human ability. The person that he turned to was the only one who could administer peace to his heart and truth to his mind. Even though he despaired, he did not give up and give in to his fears. It was to Jesus that he ran. From the world's perspective, there are many places you can go to find comfort, but there is only one place where you will find an ear to listen to your every longing. True peace only comes from God.

Nothing is so great that God is not greater still.

It doesn't take much stamina or intelligence to win, when all is on your side. But it does take courage when it seems that everything or everyone is against you.

Remember God's promise, "My grace is sufficient for you, my power is made perfect in weakness." This all spells success. It is turning a minus into a plus.

If you feel life has handed you a lemon, turn it into usefulness. With the help of God you can turn your minus into a plus.

A very fundamental spiritual principle for success is, "Let go, let God!" Let God have His rightful position at the center of our lives and as we seek spiritual solutions to the problems of our lives, we will be able to handle situations which used to baffle us.

We will suddenly realize that God is doing for us what we could not do for ourselves.

Turning a minus into a plus means that through Jesus Christ we are able to live above the problems of life and their causes.

It is a fact of life that it is in our weakness that we find His wondrous grace, for man's extremity is God's opportunity.

Even though our needs will be many, troublesome, recurrent, petty, urgent, unexpected, unprecedented, still He shall supply our needs.

The Lord is saying to you, "My grace is sufficient for you!" Take hold of that and believe it and even in the midst of a thousand griefs and fears, you will be able to turn a minus into a plus.

New anti-well bills introduced in house

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

New legislative bills to ban commercial hazardous waste injection wells and to require background checks on persons applying for such permits have been introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives by Rep. Gregory Pitoniak (D-Taylor).

Last year Pitoniak began action on a similar commercial hazardous well ban bill for Michigan, but that action died on Dec. 31, 1994, along with hundreds of other House and Senate bills on which no action was taken.

Pitoniak reported last week that he has filed two bills for the 88th Michigan State Legislature to consider on the environmental issues and is planning companion bills.

Pitoniak, who represents residents of Romulus as well as Taylor, told his legislative colleagues, "I am facing the prospect of a hazardous waste injection well being built and operated in my district. At the present time, there are no commercial hazardous waste injection wells operating in Michigan and state industries have not been having a hard time finding other means of disposing of such waste in a safe and efficient manner.

"I am facing the prospect of a hazardous waste injection well being built and operated in my district."

"Furthermore, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the federal Environmental Protection Agency do not have adequate resources to properly monitor wells that may be built or the transportation of waste to them," he said.

Pitoniak's actions come in the midst of extensive litigation between Romulus and the Environmental Disposal Systems, who are seeking to operate such a well on Wahrman Road in Romulus.

Numerous western Wayne County and Downriver community governments last year also passed resolutions supporting Romulus' fight and Pitoniak's well ban bill.

Pitoniak also reveals that he will introduce companion bills that would:

- increase the amount of bonding required to operate, cap or clean up an injection well.
- mandate site assessments to check for contamination on land being considered for deep well injection.
- prohibit the construction of hazardous waste injection wells near residential areas.
- and provide the Department of Natural Resources with jurisdiction over the transportation of waste to an injection well site.

Bear, train exhibit scheduled

By GRETCHEN MADICK
MCN Staff Writer

The ice may melt away from the Ice Festival but the Teddy Bear and Train Exhibit at the Plymouth Historical Museum will continue through Jan. 31.

The exhibit is at 155 S. Main Street in Plymouth.

According to Teddy bear history, the "Teddy Bear" was born in 1902 as a result of a hunting trip taken by President Theodore (Teddy) Roosevelt.

While on a hunt near Onward, Miss., in October of 1902, the president refused to shoot a 235-pound black bear. Some people in his hunting party were eager for the president to go home with a bear, so they captured an exhausted, older bear near a watering hole and roped it to a tree. A messenger was sent to camp to tell the president he could come shoot his prey. When President Roosevelt arrived, he refused to shoot the captive bear and wouldn't let anyone else turn a gun on the animal.

Like most presidential happenings, Roosevelt's hunt was covered by newsmen. Two days later, cartoonist Clifford Berryman of the Washington Post called national attention to the hunting incident, and, of course, to the sorrowful, captive bear.

Morris and Rose Michtom, Russian immigrants were the proprietors of a small novelty store in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Teddy bears can be divided into three categories based on whether they are mass-produced, designer bears or one-of-a-kind, open-edition or limited-edition collectibles.

Century-old firm has new appeal

The Watkins catalog illustrates the adage that "the more things change, the more they stay the same" because the 126-year-old company's products are still in demand. The company made a big splash with in 1886 with the nation's first full money back guarantee:

"If a Watkins product used in the home is, for any reason, considered not to be satisfactory, please return it to us or to your representative for exchange or full refund of purchase price." A guarantee that hasn't changed.

"Selling Watkins products is an interesting business because so many people fondly remember the merchandise," said Lyle Hueftner. "I just have to reintroduce the products."

Watkins offers 350 different products: kitchen, personal, health and household.

Some of Watkins best selling food products are a mix of oldies -- their famous vanilla, black pepper and cinnamon -- as well as innovative products like tropical salsa and liquid spices. Lyle explained, "During 126 years, Watkins learned to listen to its customers, not to be afraid to change, and not to mess with something that sells."

Lyle recommends the top-of-the-line pepper because Watkins' cracking process eliminates dust. Consequently there's no sneezing. "I can usually sell it by demonstrating that I can sniff it," he said. He also recommends the award-winning vanilla extract with a low alcohol content. "It has bake-and-freeze-proof flavor," he said.

For busy people, he recommends Watkins concentrated low salt soup and gravies, a nutritious and tasty way to flavor pasta, rice and other grains.

Watkins household products promise to reduce cleaning time.

Lyle likes Watkins multipurpose organic cleaner: "Since you can clean everything inside and out, from house to car, it replaces dish washing detergent, glass cleaner, and dozens of products. Since it's biodegradable and phosphate free, you can use it near lawns."

Lyle Hueftner

Personal care products are made with herbs and botanicals. Vanilla hand cream - a vanilla scented, creamy formula containing special emollients to make hands feel smooth, soft and pampered is Lyle's top pick. However, he's becoming partial to a new herbal and Glycine hair care line.

Original health products are still big sellers, he said, especially Petro-Carbo Salve, a black salve, strong enough to draw slivers out of your skin.

Lyle writes a lot of orders for Icy Blue Ointment, a modern pain reliever in gel form, used for muscle aches, minor arthritis, and simple back pain.

After retiring from his job as a government price analyst, Lyle teamed up with his daughter Margie to represent Watkins products. Previously Lyle was a North Central airline pilot for 14 years. Margie works for UM hospital.

Lyle says Watkins shoppers should call at 313-454-9583 or 1-800-576-8290. "I can insure that people receive Watkins frequent sale prices, and Watkins will guarantee 48 delivery on all products."

Hours are to call are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., seven days a week, or for more information call 313-454-9583 or 1-800-576-8290.

2 plead guilty in ethnic intimidation

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

Two Trenton residents, accused of hurling racial slurs and breaking through a glass drive-thru window at a Westland Taco Bell restaurant, pleaded guilty to charges of ethnic intimidation and malicious destruction of a building before Detroit Recorder's Judge William Cahalan.

Mark Allan-Victor Erickson and Ronald Leonard Pittaway were originally charged with malicious destruction of property over $100 and ethnic intimidation before Wayne County Prosecutor Christine Kowal requested the charges include two additional counts each of assault with intent to commit great bodily harm less than murder. Pittaway was also charged with one count of malicious destruction of police property.

The 22-year-old defendants posted $3,000/10-percent bonds. As a condition of those bonds, they cannot drink alcohol and must attend Alcoholics Anonymous twice a week.

Both men, who are scheduled to be sentenced Feb. 9, face a maximum sentence of four years and/or a $2,000 fine for the property destruction and two years and/or a $5,000 fine for ethnic intimidation.

"I felt the glass hit my face when the first window broke. I had cuts on the right side of my ear and gashes in the back of my neck and a cut on my cheek."

- Carmane Ussery

The alleged assault occurred at the Taco Bell, located at 201 S. Merriman, when the defendant's were going through the drive-thru at 2:30 a.m. Oct. 29.

Shift manager, James Foreman, 21, testified during preliminary examination in Westland 18th District Court that he and two other employees were working the drive-thru window when the defendant's and two other individuals drove up to the speaker to place their order.

Carmane Ussery was in the process of taking their order, when a problem arose with a car at the drive-thru window and Ussery asked the men to "hold on."

Angered by the delay, according to testimony, both defendants began shouting racial epithets and obscenities into the speaker.

Foreman testified that the men said, "Nigger you take my order now. Mother f---er take my order now and I mean now."

Both Ussery and Foreman refused the men service after the remarks and Foreman asked the individuals to leave the premises.

"At first I asked them to leave. Then I ignored them," Foreman said, adding that more racial slurs were made.

Moments later, the defendants walked around a car parked at the drive-thru window and while shouting racial slurs and obscenities, Pittaway allegedly "slammed" the sliding glass window on Foreman's finger and both defendants punched through either side of window.

"I felt the glass hit my face when the first window broke," Ussery said. "I had cuts on the right side of my ear and gashes in the back of my neck and a cut on my cheek."

"We're really lucky somebody didn't have glass embedded in their face or their eyes," Kowal commented.

According to testimony, Erickson then broke off the price control monitor outside the building, which displays the amount due for the order, and used to "chip away" at the glass.

Both victims were standing within three feet of the windows when they were broken and glass was found up to 20 feet away from the window. Restaurant general manager Carol Wojtan said when she arrived at the store there was glass everywhere.

"We found glass in the food, shelving. There were glass particles everywhere. I had to get rid of the food and all the paper products. We can't take a chance," Wojtan testified.

Ussery pushed the panic button to alert Westland police and retrieved a broomstick and tried to fend off the alleged attackers as they were breaking through the window.

Both victims suffered lacerations to their ears and were struck in the face with an unknown object, Foreman also received a cut on his finger.

Defense attorney Mark Madigson said a couple of the employees were in a brawl with his clients outside the building, but the two denied it.

However, Foreman did admit his employees left the store without his permission prior to police arriving.

Westland police officer Steve Borish added that once Pittaway was placed in the patrol vehicle he began kicking the side door window bending the car frame around the door.

Former addict crusades against drugs, violence

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

Before the Rev. John Pointer walked the straight and narrow, he was a drug addict, alcoholic and criminal. He learned his lessons in the streets and paid for them with several terms in prison.

When he went into prison the last time, he taught himself to read, write and type and vowed to help others to avoid the pitfalls that had put him in prison.

When he was released from prison, he continued his cru-

"I can help addicts, because I know what it is. You can't teach if you don't know."

- Rev. John Pointer

sade to keep youths from following the same path that led him to prison. Working with the pastor of the New Holy Trinity Baptist Church in Detroit, he founded the Youth Development Center, recruiting youths and counseling them to overcome their substance addictions.

"I can help addicts, because I know what it is," Pointer said. "You can't teach if you don't know."

"I already have recruited people to help. I have a Wayne man who is willing to teach youths how to bump and paint. With skills, they can get jobs," Pointer said. "I have other people who have already said they are going to help."

Pointer said the most effective way to offer help is through the community and its churches.

In addition to his drug-related work, Pointer is also crusading against violence.

He has an album, Let's Stop the Killing, and wears a jacket which displays the phrase, "Let's stop killing each other." Pointer is also involved in the film, Turning Point, which is a true story about drug dealer and users and prostitutes.

To raise funds for a community-operated youth home, Pointer is hosting a benefit breakfast at 8 a.m. Feb. 25 at the Beehive Restaurant on Michigan Avenue in Wayne.

Laughter provides non-stop one-liners

Neil Simon's funniest play in decades, Laughter On The 23rd Floor, is hitting the road, and it already has made its first stop at the Fisher Theater.

Directed by the peerless Jerry Zaks, this production has had Broadway audiences literally rollicking in their seats for each and every performance of non-stop one-liners, double takes and sight gags.

Set in the writers office for the Max Prince Show, a 90-minute live Saturday night comedy on NBC, Laughter is a recollection of Simon's years working on the infamous Sid Caesar television show.

In those months of 1953, television was still young enough to spawn send ups of everything from Shakespeare to Renaissance painters which was truly the incipient "golden age" of an all new and accessible medium.

This is where audiences meet the maniacal and winning writers for the phenomenal Max Prince. These wacky personalities play off and to the Caesar-Gleason-Berle persona of Prince in what one critic noted as the most economical format Simon has ever used.

The first national touring production features latter day televisions own Howard Hesseman who first blasted to notability as WKRP's Johnny Fever, followed by a stint on One Day At A Time, and most recently as a high school teacher in Head Of The Class.

Laughter will be at the Fisher now through Jan. 29. For ticket information call 872-1000.

New flicks heat up at theaters

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

Where can you find a place that has murder, mystery, love, and friendship all in one room?

The sizzling lineup of new movies for 1995 is heating up at local theaters, and movie makers are hoping to dazzle audiences even more than last year.

Movies expected to be hot this year include: The Walking Dead; Circle of Friends; Dr. Jekyll and Ms. Hyde; Tales From The Hood; Faithful; Heaven's Prisoners; Last of the Dogmen; Getting Away With Murder; and Bad With Numbers.

For those who enjoy a good action-packed film, The Walking Dead brings you a drama about a Vietnam War as seen through the eyes of four black Marines (New Jack City's Allen Payne, Def Jam's Eddie Griffin, Joe Morton, and Vonte Sweet).

Dropped into a "hot" landing zone, they face a life and death situation in which the only certainty is that they won't all make it out alive.

In the middle of this bold and courageous mission, we learn about how they came to be here and the women and wives they left behind. With their lives at stake, they rely on cunning and sheer guts to fight their way out of the jungle.

Dead is expected to be released Feb. 24.

Circle of Friends stars Chris O'Donnell (Scent of a Woman, The Three Musketeers) in this witty, charming and poignant love story. Three small town Irish girls go off to college in Dublin where they meet Jack Foley (Chris O'Donnell).

He's good-looking. He's charismatic. He's popular. He's the boy every girl wants, but, surprisingly, it's Bernadette the plain Jane of the group who instantly attracts him with her honesty, warmth and humor.

Their friendship becomes more and more complicated as friends, family and other surprising events threaten the course of true love. This flick is scheduled to open at local theaters March 15.

Dr. Jekyll And Mrs. Hyde is a diabolical new comedy in which a brilliant young research chemist, who had to settle for a job at a perfume company, stumbles upon the secret formula of his great-grandfather, Dr. Jekyll.

While trying to improve upon the old formula, he samples the new potion and discovers he has gone too far in another direction.

In a startling new twist on the old classic, Jekyll turns into a voluptuous, but wicked woman (Sean Young, Ace Ventura: Pet Detective and No Way Out) who wreaks havoc on his career and his relationship with his girlfriend. (Lysette Anthony, Husbands and Wives).

Tales From The Hood is an action-horror film about three young hustlers who show up at a local funeral parlor to retrieve what they think to be a lost stash of drugs.

What started as a simple search for the spoils, turns into a nightmarish tour of a supernatural, super-scary underworld. Led by the eerily captivating undertaker, Mr. Simms (Clarence Williams III), violent and terrifying "tales" unfold, where the young brothers discover the cold truth about dealing in darkness. This movie is slated to be released May 5.

Faithful is a comedy-thriller starring Cher as Margaret O'Donnell who is surprised when she discovers that her philandering husband (Ryan O'Neal) may have hired a hit man (Chazz Palmitieri) to kill her. A wryly suspenseful game of cat-and-mouse ensues as Margaret turns the tables on the unsuspecting man, who

Dan Aykroyd stars as ethics professor Jack Lambert who finds out that his kindly neighbor, Max Mueller is a notorious Nazi war criminal who is plotting to leave the country and go free in Getting Away With Murder. Lily Tomlin portrays Mueller's daughter who becomes romantically involved with Aykroyd. MCN Special Photo finds himself deceived and seduced by the very woman he holds captive.

Faithful will be showing at local theaters June 2.

Heaven's Prisoners is a sexy, mystery-thriller starring Alec Baldwin as Dave Robicheaux as a gritty New Orleans detective who has left the force to live peacefully on the Louisiana bayou with his beautiful wife (Kelly Lynch).

But when a mysterious plane crash draws him back into the underworld and his family is violently threatened, he is forced to return to his old life with a vengeance.

Release date for this flick has not been announced.

Last Of The Dogmen is a romantic adventure film set in the contemporary Montana wilderness. A rugged bounty hunter (Tom Berenger) is hired to track three escaped convicts. When he discovers clues which don't add up and finds the men dead, he teams up with a feisty female anthropologist (Barbara Hershey) who reluctantly agrees to help solve the mystery.

Last has no official opening date.

Getting Away With Murder is a funny look at crime and punishment. Jack Lambert (Dan Aykroyd) is an ethics professor who always thought he knew the difference between right and wrong.

Bad With Numbers is a sexy, coming-of-age comedy starring Jason London who is Todd Boomer, a gifted high school senior.

Alec Baldwin stars as ex-cop Dave Robicheaux who is befriended by Robin Gladdis played by Mary Stuart Masterson in Heaven's Prisoners. MCN Special Photo

Sean Young stars as the voluptuous, but wicked Helen Hyde whose feminine charms work wonders on her colleague played by Harvey Fierstein in Dr. Jekyll and Ms. Hyde. MCN Special Photo

Cher stars as Margaret O'Donnell as a woman who discovers that her philandering husband may have hired a hitman to kill her in the comedy thriller Faithful.

Area residents invited to celebrate Wayne Winterfest 95'

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

It's expected to be the best Wayne Winterfest celebration ever.

Area residents are invited to participate in the 20th Annual Winterfest events Jan. 26-29 at the Wayne Community Center.

"We have a few new programs we're offering this year," said Jeff Rutter, recreation supervisor. "First of all, we moved some events from Goudy Park to Attwood so we can come inside after the event is completed outside such as the Polar Pet Parade and Spark the Park Walk."

In conjunction with the Wayne Merchants Association, the parks and recreation department will be sending out the official Wayne Winterfest '95 brochure to residents listing all the festivities around Jan. 16.

"One of the new events lined up this year for the Winterfest is the Wayne 'Police and Friends versus Over 30 and 40 Hockey League' Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) Hockey Challenge," said Rutter. "That will take place 5 p.m. Jan. 28 at the Wayne Community Center. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children."

Proceeds from the event will go to the DARE program in Wayne. Tickets are available at the Wayne Police Department on Sims Road or at the Wayne Community Center on Howe Road at Annapolis.

"The Winterfest is really for every member of the family," Rutter said. "The main purpose is to provide family entertainment during the cold winter months. It provides a way for the family to be able to enjoy doing things together."

The Earth Angels will perform Jan. 26 at the Wayne Community Center. The award winning group of 9-to-15-year-olds will dance and pantomime to a variety of rock n' roll hits from the 1950s and 1960s.

The show includes choreographed dance numbers and authentic costumes.

The talented group has been performing for eight years and has been featured at many festivals and fairs in Michigan including: Wayne, Westland, Belleville and Canton.

"This is our 20th Winterfest celebration, and it just shows how many residents enjoy participating because we have it had as long as the Wayne Community Center has been open," Rutter said.

Residents must register for all the events and tournaments. For more information call 721-4000.

The following is a list of the various Winterfest events:

JAN. 26
 • Spark the Park-6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at Attwood Park. Free hot chocolate will be provided by McDonald's. A free glow
